Beyond Words has become the only way to describe the indescribable, to give a name to a class of individuals to which no name or label can do justice. Whether in the classroom, coming one on one with the daily academic challenges that face today's students or on the playing field where we have proven ourselves time and time again, the Class of '94 has found excellence in everything they do. To put it quite simply our performance the past four years has been . . . . Beyond Words. Like the artist on the brink of inspiration, like the poet who sculptures her emotions into written verse, we too as a class have seen and surpassed all our potential.

When the 1994 Stotonian Summer Yearbook Staff assembled in early July one of its first tasks was to select the theme for the yearbook. What the theme does in a couple of words, we have lived out in our high school career. Come June 3, 1994 when a dynasty reaches an end and an unrivaled class, perhaps the last for many years to come, enters into the world, there will be no single word to describe the event. To the Class of '94 this is your yearbook, the friendships, the relationships, the victories, and an occasional defeat. So, treasure the memories, remember our successes, love the relationships and relish the past with the intensity in which it was lived. — By Peter Cochrane

ANNIVERSARY 17

4:57 a.m.
i've somehow woken up
from my dreams
in time to turn another year older.

i don't know how this happened
at just the right moment i feel circular like and seasonal and important and new as things come and go
and die and change into organic little pieces, ready for life.

my body's grown no bigger the last time i checked and my eyes seem to stay at their comfortable hue, but it's just something i feel,
another year gone by more people i have met more stories have been shared it's not so bad to be awake at this ungodly hour,
not so bad to be caught in the midst of life.

90 What Happened During Our Freshman Year? 91

By Rachel Sinclair

Four years ago as we first began our time at SHS, many things developed in the nation and the world. Saddam Hussein began to bully the much smaller Kuwait and the US stepped in to crush Iraq with its military force. Back home, on US soil we all showed support for the Gulf War by wearing yellow ribbons and American flag pins. Mike Tyson took as bad a beating from James Buster Douglas, as Iraq did from the United States. While watching the World Series when the Cincinnati Reds gave the Oakland A's no chance, winning four straight games, you could have been eating the new McLean Burger from McDonald's in a paper wrapper, as they did away with the styrofoam boxes in our freshman year. It was also the beginning of a new sport, Roller Blading.

When we were only 14 or 15 we watched the first year of Bart Simpson, and In Living Color. At the movies, Pretty Woman, Home Alone, Ghost, Misery and The Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles were the box office giants. We were all fooled with the group Milli Vanilli as they lip synched their way into stardom. In the middle of the recession, all the White House accomplished was the publishing of a book written by the first dog Millie. In political views overseas in Africa, Nelson Mandela was released and he could, once again, start the battle against apartheid. The hot toy in the stores was, for people of all ages, Roller Blades.

By Dave McGarry

Lots of fun and exciting things happened this year, but the headlining news was rather alarming. Dr. Seuss, every kid's favorite author, died and Rev. Jesse Jackson read Green Eggs and Ham on Saturday Night Live as a tribute to the great children's author. Magic Johnson stunned the world when he announced that he had the HIV virus. He then went on to retire from basketball, play in the Summer Olympics as a member of the Dream Team, come out of retirement, and retire again.

On a more serious note, the beating of Rodney King was televised, and the entire nation got to view a well-portioned dose of police brutality first hand. When the policemen were found not guilty at the trial, a five day riot ensued throughout the entire L.A. area. Final numbers were: 58 killed and $1 billion in damages.

However, we weren't the only ones with internal problems. The Soviet Union underwent much change. The Union collapsed, and Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania declared their independence. Boris Yeltsein became President of Russia and in South Africa white voters overwhelmingly supported negotiations for Anti-Apartheid reforms.

Back in the U.S. Demi Moore appeared on the cover of Vanity Fair in the buff for a third time. The Twins won the World Series in the tenth inning of the seventh game over the Braves and the Redskins won the Super Bowl. New Jack City and Boyz N the Hood sparked a bit of violence and controversy while William Kennedy Smith's rape trial enjoyed good television ratings. Duke won the NCAA championship and the Chicago Bulls took home the NBA championship win for the second year in a row. Noriega was tried, convicted, and sentenced to 40 years in prison while the issue of abortion was a Hot . . . Hot . . . Hot . . . conversation piece, as violence and demonstrations broke out around the nation. Terminator 2 raked in the dough at the box office and Boyz II Men hit it big with "It's So Hard to Say Goodbye to Yesterday."

George Bush left behind a legacy in the form of the Clarence Thomas/Anita Hill hearings, and some guy by the name of Bill Clinton from Little Rock, Arkansas decided to run for President. S.H.S. Headlines of the Year: "Stephen Hansen Abducted by Hideous Space Creature!" It was the last year of parties at the Cons.

In the last weeks of his administration, George Herbert Walker Bush, 41st President of the United States, granted pardons to six former officials from the Reagan years—including former defense secretary Caspar W. Weinberger—who had been subjects of a six-year investigation on their alleged role in the Iran-Contra arms-for-hostages affair.

By Olivia Kim

We returned our junior year after the '92 Summer Olympics at Barcelona with 108 gold medals. Hurricane Andrew had hit Louisiana and Florida in August causing 51 deaths and $22 billion in damages. Lollapalooza was in its second year with shows including Pearl Jam, Lush, Ice Cube, RHCP, Ministry, and the Jesus & Mary Chain. In the capitol the Democrats seized the White House after 12 years of Reagan-Bush. Clinton became our 42nd President with 42% of the national total. Bush received 38% and Perot 19% — the highest percent of the popular vote ever received by an independent candidate.

Across the world Somalia and Bosnia posed a tricky question of intervention on the part of the U.S. Meanwhile in Hollywood, Audrey Hepburn passed away at sixty-three. Silence of the Lambs took Best Picture, Actor, Actress, and Director at the Academy Awards. Batman Returns was the top-grossing film with $165.7 million. At the 35th Annual Grammys Eric Clapton swept six Grammys with his Unplugged album and "Tears in Heaven." The Red Hot Chili Peppers won Best Hard Rock Performance and to the questioning disgust and dismay of many, Nine-inch Nails won Best Heavy Metal Performance. Dizzy Gillespie, the innovative jazz trumpeter who pioneered the "be-bop" style with Charlie Parker died. The U.S. Post Office issued the first Elvis Presley stamp. Seattle grunge and "alternative" came to Stoughton High. Flannels, Docs, and Chucks became mainstream to the dismay of cutting edge aficionados. The Amy Fischer story was a TV drama before anyone knew the . . . outcome. The World Trade Center in New York City was bombed in the United States' first experience of terrorism at home. In Waco, Texas it was announced that David Koresh had died in the Branch Davidian compound fire.

Spontaneous alternative revolution. Lollapalooza II opened in Mountain View, California, and immediately laid to rest any fear the the past couldn't be repeated. This years version, was bigger and badder than its predecessor. The Red Hot Chili Peppers and Pearl Jam were two the main artists.

93 What Happened During Our Senior Year? 94

Helping keep the environment clean became an important goal and a corporate mandate for many companies. Johnson & Johnson, McDonald's Corporation and leading users of paper-based products took an unprecedented environmental initiative and joined together to boost their use of recycled paper. Working with the Environmental Defense Fund, the companies will help devise ways to increase their use of recycled paper and encourage their suppliers to use more environmentally sound methods to make paper products. The Recycling Club at Stoughton High School does their part to help make the students, faculty and staff aware by placing paper recycling boxes through out the school.

The AIDS virus continues to spread. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimate there will be 40,000 to 80,000 new HIV infections in the United States our senior year. President Clinton appointed Kristine Gebbie as his AIDS policy coordinator, also called the AIDS czar, to oversee government programs involving AIDS.

First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton chaired the White House task force that devised the health security plan. The proposal calls for employers to pay 80 percent of their workers' average health-care premiums and workers would pay the rest. Small businesses and low-wage workers would get subsidies to help them pay their share. The plan would cost the federal government an extra $350 billion over five years, and Clinton hopes to get most of that money from holding down spending on Medicaid and Medicare, boosting cigarette taxes by about 80-cents a pack and imposing a special levy on corporations that set up their own health plans.

Floods hit the Midwest in late spring and early summer—thousands of farms and homes were lost, fields were swamped and towns were submerged. The states that got hit the hardest were Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, causing billions of dollars worth of damage. As the waters began to recede, barges began moving along the Mississippi River and people began digging out their mud-filled homes. President Clinton signed a $5.7 million aid package to help the victims.

Ruth Bader Ginsburg became the second female Supreme Court Justice. She joins Sandra Day O'Connor, who has been a justice since 1981. Ginsburg, 60, is the 107th high court justice. She had won several landmark Supreme Court cases as a lawyer for the American Civil Liberties Union Women's Rights Project in the 1970s. She was the prime architect of the then-radical legal argument that the Constitution most often requires equal treatment for men and women.

Enemies to the death for three decades, Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization opened a new era in their blood-soaked history by recognizing each other's legitimacy. Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and the P.L.O. chairman, Yasser Arafat, signed a treaty at the White House. History will remember this moment as the Mideast Accord which was the product of months of secret negotiations conducted mainly in Norway. The accord sanctioned the creation of an autonomous Palestinian homeland in the Gaza Strip and Jericho.

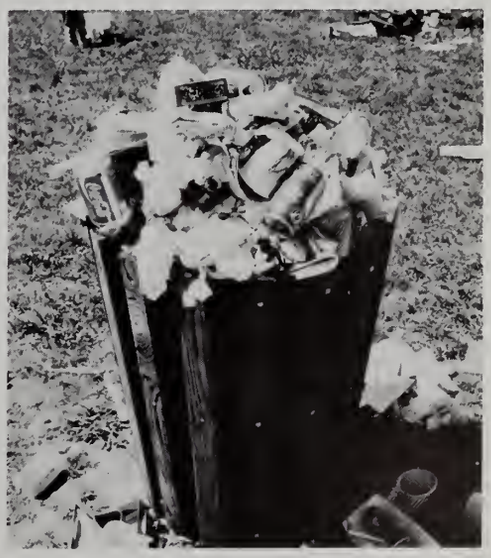
Janet Reno is the first attorney general of the United States, and President Clinton's third attempt to fill the position of attorney general. As the nation's head crime fighter, she confronts growing problems—drugs, gangs, violence. She has become a crusader for America's children. Reno's save the family campaign is one of her many projects.

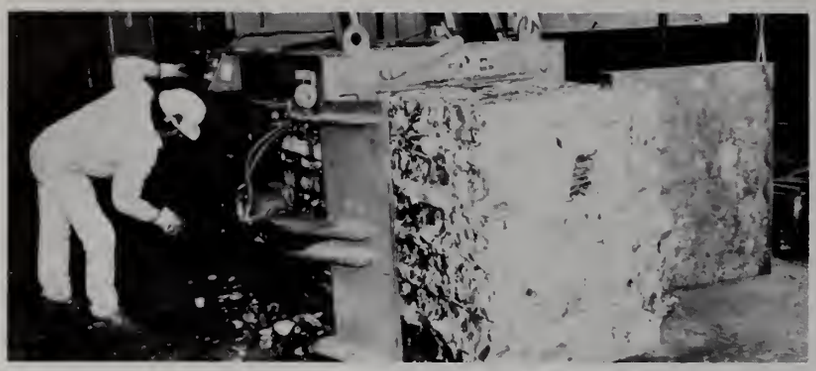
Forty seconds that shook Los Angeles. At 4:31 on Monday morning, January 17, 1994, an earthquake registering 6.6 on the Richter Scale jolted residents of Southern California from their sleep. It was not The Big One, but it left at least 55 people dead, brought down major freeways and destroyed or damaged thousands of homes making them uninhabitable. School district officials estimated building damage in the area of $700 million.

The 11-member crew of the space shuttle Endeavor had one mission: repair the Hubble Space Telescope. The Hubble was launched in 1990 but defects in its reflective mirrors prevented sharp images of faint stars at the edge of the galaxy. The Endeavour chased the Hubble for 820,000 miles for over two days before it was plucked from a 367-mile-high orbit. The repair mission was a success!

Nancy Kerrigan, who won a bronze medal for figure skating at the 1992 Olympics, was expected to win the national figure skating title in Detroit in early January. Before she had a chance to compete, Nancy was bashed on the knee with a metal object by an unidentified assailant forcing her to withdraw from the competition and allowing Tonya Harding to claim the title. However, this was not the end of this ice skating drama. Nearly a month later, Tonya's former husband, Jeff Gillooly, pleaded guilty in the assault case. Harding had consistently denied any role in planning the attack on her competitor but it was later discovered she had played a part in the cover up. Within two weeks, Nancy was completing her most difficult jumps in practice and she was on the Olympic team.

Wildfires swept through Southern California as 26 major fires scorched patches from Ventura County to the Mexican border. Nineteen of the fires were believed to have been arson. Thousands of firefighters from around the state fought the blazes without pause for days while unpredictable winds whipped the flames from hillside to hillside and house to house.





(Left) Helping to keep the environment clean became an important goal and a corporate mandate. (Below L-R) First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton speaks regarding the health security plan. Floods hit the Midwest in late Spring and early Summer — Thousands of farms and homes were lost, fields swamped and towns were submerged. Nancy Kerrigan is able to complete in the 1994 Olympics after having her knee bashed by an assailant.

(Upper L-R) Ruth Bader Ginsburg became the second female Supreme Court Justice. Forty seconds shook Los Angeles, an earthquake registering 6.6 on the Richter Scale jolted residents of Southern California from their sleep. Janet Reno is named the first woman attorney general of the United States. The 11-member crew of the space shuttle Endeavor had one mission: repair the Hubble Space Telescope. Wildfires swept through Southern California in November 1993.

WORDS TO LIVE BY

London Bridge is falling down

October 5, 1993

How much weight can a toothpick bridge hold? Just ask one of Mr. Carey's physic students because for one day they had to do just that. However, future architects they are not! As bridges snapped, crackled, popped under pressure; each student had the chance to experience the sweetness of success or the depression accompanied by defeat.

Bridges were presented in various styles and configurations. Some were built thin and narrow, while others were constructed thick and boxy, but the triangular approach was by far the most frequently used design to the point where it became difficult to find differences in each student's construction, except for maybe the type of glue that was used. The criteria that all students had to adhere to was using no more than 200 toothpicks in their design and a minimal amount of glue. As always, SHS students approached the task and that 18 cm. gap between the two wooden blocks with a variety of reactions. Here are some of this year's victors and bridge day wash outs. From (top) L: Oookay! It broke, so now what happens? R: Bobby piles it on. "If mom could see me now!" (middle) L: Alison mourns the death of her bridge. Wahhh . . . ! R: It may not look pretty, but it's worth a "B" (bottom) R: Heh, Heh, Heh! This isn't so tough.

Homecoming

October 22, 1993

The Homecoming court consisted this year of six women who have distinguished themselves from all others. In order to wear the crown it takes a special individual. To even have been nominated is an honor in itself. However, there can only be one Homecoming Queen.

To be queen it goes far beyond one's beauty, for beauty is only skin deep. The Queen is the one person who has been an asset to her class, throughout their four years of high school. You voted for her, you nominated her, the Homecoming Queen for the Class of 1994, is Miss Rashida Gross.

Rashida embodies the essence of her class, and serves as a model to her peers. Next year and for every year thereafter, classes will see one of their own being coronated Homecoming Queen, but there will never be another Queen that rivals Queen Rashida, for there will never again be a class that resembles the Class of ninety-four.

Working People Of SHS

Another Side To Academics

There is another aspect to the academic education offered at Stoughton High School and it's this side which finances all the rest. The number of students who go to school while holding down a part-time job has always been a staggering sum. However, today's student seems to be managing it all, from the part-time job to a full course load of classes and a jam-packed extracurricular agenda. Getting involved has never been a problem for the class of '94, but as for spreading oneself too thin they're guilty as charged.

Five to ten hours a week and sometimes more, these students can be found on the job whether it's serving up hot dogs at Nathan's (Scott Mulvaney), ringing in the groceries with a smile at Shaws (Dianne Couto), or checking the customer's shoe size at Foot Locker (Jym Bagtaz). The working people of SHS have learned how to cope with the difficulties of juggling both school and work. Part-time jobs play an important role in high school life. If it's serving a cafeteria customer fresh fish (Jean Veldhoven) at the Sinai Hospital, mopping the floors of Pinches & Pounds (Steve Elefson), or climbing the ladders at Hit or Miss (Lizete Camara), there has and will forever be a fascination with work mainly because it's where the student gets paid.

So, whether you find yourself in Walgreens (Tom McNeill) or CVS (Susie Deana) or just ordering a yogurt from Freshens (Chrissy Recupero), don't be surprised if a member of the class of '94 is the person ready to take your order, hand you your receipt, or be stocking the item you're looking to purchase. After all, having a job after school has become a prerequisite for having a social life.

The Slaughter

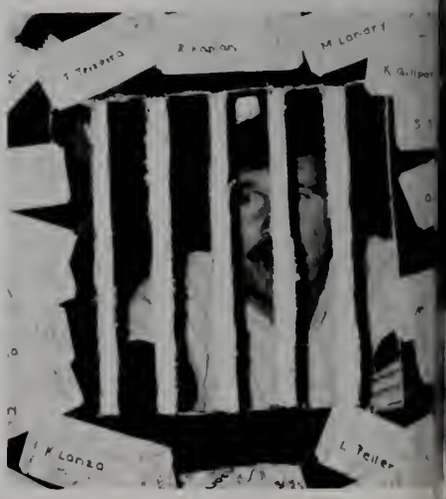
Spirit Week Belongs To Seniors

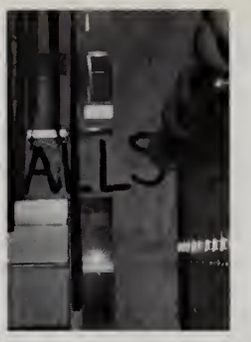
Take a tour around the world in 94 days as suggested by Brooke Scannell. On your voyage down the senior spirit hall your ship will dock in London where tourists can visit Buckingham Palace and Big Ben. Cruising high above Atlantic. waters travel to Paris, France and take the elevator to the top of the Eiffel Tower where you could eat at our Black Knight Cafe. From here you'll be whisked away to the far off lands of Germany, Greece, and Egypt where one can see the remains of the Parthenon, and pyramids etc.

Though the seniors were determined to win, scheduling conflicts with Powder Puff practice complicated decorating, as many senior girls were torn between practice and the decorating of the hall. As respected upperclassmen, the seniors were protective of their hallway, employing guards to provide security! Mr. Kelleher, as the responsible class advisor, provided the only resemblance of sanity and calm. Always supportive, he budgeted his time between coaching Powder Puff and advising for Spirit Halls.

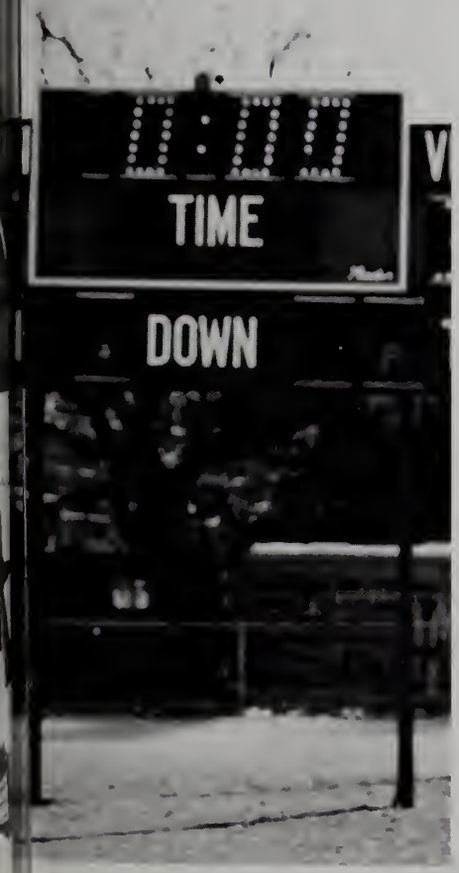
The night before the hall was to be judged, dedicated seniors stayed at SHS until 8:30 pm putting the final touches on their last and most important Spirit Hall. After an entertaining pizza party, senior girls headed out to toilet paper the Powder Puff Cheerleaders' houses.

The next morning, after the halls had been judged, seniors broke out the brooms and swept up the remains of their unforgettable Hall. The dedication and team work of the entire senior class definitely paid off, as the Class of 1 won Spirit Halls, the canned food dr sweat shirt day, and black and ora day.





Thanksgiving Day Rivals



A spirited feeling hovered in the air on this year's Thanksgiving Day, a feeling unlike other years. Faithful Stoughton High School Football fans poured into the stands with hopes of victory. For the first time in eleven years, the Black Knights had their turn to celebrate on the 50-yard line at the "Big Game." From the very start of the season, fans and supporters knew the team would be at the top of the league, but deep in their minds they were even more enthusiastic about the chance to beat the Canton Bulldogs. With strong wins against Franklin, Mansfield and Oliver Ames, the team was pumped and ready for their Thanksgiving Day Rivals.

Stoughton clearly outmatched Canton in every aspect, on and off the field. First, despite the freezing cold weather, there were over twice as many Stoughton fans as Canton spectators, even though the game was held in Canton. Obviously, Canton knew what they were up against. However, in the early stages of the game, Canton seemed to be shutting down the fierce running attack led by Hockomock League All-Star Aaron Bascon. Stoughton fans panicked for a while as Canton took a 7-0 lead into halftime.

In the second half, the Black Knights showed the Bulldogs what they were made of. An explosive scoring attack of 4 touchdowns propelled the Knights to a commanding lead of 30-7. The defense, which prevented a number of potential Canton touchdowns, and the offensive line, which opened up the field with key blocks, deserve a great deal of credit for their efforts. A late Canton rally fell short as the Knights won the game 30-15.

The eleven year jinx finally ended as the team victoriously rejoiced while fans ran onto the field to share in the victory. Thanksgiving turkey tasted sweeter this year, especially for the seniors and their families.

DOWN WITH THE BULLDOGS

Around one hundred senior girls signed up to play powder puff football and everyone that came to practice got to play the day of the game. What was learned at practice was transformed on the field when the Lady Knights crushed the Lady Bulldogs, 26-14. Although Canton scored the first touch-down, it wasn't enough to stop the Knights.

Good efforts were put in by the whole team, but we could have never won without the help of our halfbacks, Chrissy Recupero, Rachel Sinclair, our wings, Kiley McGarry and especially our quarterback Brooke Scannell. Canton was playing really rough particularly on our defense, but they learned not to mess with Erin Ross. No matter how hard Canton tried, they couldn't penetrate the Lady Knights defensive line.

And as for winning, the team couldn't have won the game without the support of the Powder Puff Cheerleaders. They were behind the team no matter how badly the plays were messed up. Another big part of the win was the support from the fans. Although Powder Puff Football isn't as exciting as regular football - says who - people still came to cheer Stoughton on to victory. A great deal of thanks and credit must go to Mr. Kelleher and Ms. Sullivan because if it wasn't for the time they spent coaching our girls the school wouldn't have been able to have the glory of crushing the Bulldogs.

One, Two, Three Hike: (Middle Rt.) Erin Ross leaves the field with an attitude. (Lt.) Gross is chilling in her macho orange and black attire. (Above) The huddle and the plan of attack, Krissy Callanan what are you looking at? (Bottom) A great play by the Knights, Sinclair has the ball and Lourenco goes in for the kill.

Real Men Aren't Afraid To Cheer

Some men lift weights, some men hop wood wearing flannel shirts and work boots, but only the manly men can handle cheerleading. A noble man once said that through hard work and dedication, great things can be achieved. It was these principles that the Powder Puff Cheerleading squad carried out onto the fifty-yard line. It was here that the magic took place.

The half time show was the summation of hours upon hours of exhaustive practice. Ben Thaler's house was the haven for such practices, as his neighbors were treated to many pre-shows of this greatest show on earth."

The sky grew darker and darker; the temperature dropped and dropped, but most people on and around Lucas Drive could hear the crisp "left . . . left . . . left, right, left" barking from Jason Snyder's mouth like a drill sergeant. Though it was getting late, the cadence continued, until a military caliber was reached. At the gym, Mrs. Dianne Dolan and the Varsity Cheerleaders taught the 'real men' the basics of the sport. With all the preliminary work complete and executed over and over again, the cheerleaders could do no more than sit back and wait until the pep rally.

At the pep rally, the cheerleaders gave the students a show they would not soon forget. After Bill Young's acrobatic display, the men marched out, led by Ben Thaler and Jeff Fritz. The parade ended in the middle of the gym, where two lines, "dos lines" performed such loved favorites as "Hit 'em Again," and "Mony, Mony." Then we moved to our throw formation. As daring as the task seemed, Jason Snyder, Ben Thaler, and Jason Gallant were thrown by John Cofran, Dan Saval, Jeff Croke, John Bonney, Stephen Hansen, Jason Keshishian, Derek Small, and Dan O'Neill. Scott Mulvaney clambered onto Jeff Fritz and the crowd cheered and carried on as if a zebra were being attacked by seven wild boars.

After the seniors swept spirit week, the Black Knight Men cheerleaders met the battle outside, where they screamed the very cheers that would eventually lead the Stoughton Powder Puff Girls Football to a cruising victory over the puppy . . er Bulldogs.

WINTER

One Winter Night

The Winter Dance, held in the S.H.S. cafeteria, was a most spectacular time for everyone. Many laughs were had by all, dancing to today's hottest tunes and having the honor of seeing Santa Claus and Hanukkah Harry. The best part of the evening was the crowning of the queen, Amy Leven, along with her court of Tina Muse, Janeen Labbe, and Rachel Appel. The guys at the dance all looked studly and the girls were absolutely stunning. All in all, the Winter Dance was a romantic evening full of fun and excitement.

The sophomores this year did a wonderful job with the decoration of the cafeteria, the juniors provided us with refreshments, and the seniors had the responsibility of selling the tickets.

Even though it was called a semi formal, there was quite an array of soft lines ranging from elaborately spectacular dresses to simple boxer shorts with smiling Santas and "Merry Christmas" plastered all over them.

This night was not only filled with much humor and excitement, but there was also romance in the air. All in all, it was a night where all the classes worked together, and didn't fight with each other over tape and a pair of scissors like they usually do at Spirit Halls.

DANCE

The Winner's Circle

On March 9, 1994, 139 students participated in the school's 36th Annual Science Fair. The experimental division, which 120 students entered and the exhibition, which 19 students entered, covered a wide spectrum of topics from Pool-ology, to tornadoes and the classics that involve plants and acid concentrations.

To enter the Experimental Division students had to conduct an experiment that incorporated both a control and variables, along with an original notebook, test log, and report that documents their discoveries/observations. However, to enter the Exhibition Division all that was needed was an original notebook and a report.

Each contestant was assigned three judges. After the judging there was a dinner, followed by an open house. Parents and siblings were among those from the community in attendance and the open house was accompanied by the award presentation where the judges' choices shine for one short moment and with trophy in hand receieve recognition for a job well done. However, no one walked away without at least an exhibitors' pin and one good memory that will last a life time. The top five contestants in both divisions were awarded trophies and those who received Honorable Mentions went home with medals.

The First Grand Award winners from the Experimental Division were eligible to compete in the Massachusetts State Science Fair at MIT on April 29 and 30, 1994. But as for the, the Second, Third Fourth and Fifth Grand Prize winners along with the ten Honorable Mention winners, competition in the South Shore Regional Science Fair at Bridgewater State College on March 26, 1994, was well represented by Stoughton High School. In addition, all of those who place at the Regional Fair were able to compete at the next level, the Massachusetts State Science Fair at MIT. And so another science fair season has come to a close and students hold on to their bunsen burner wishes and beaker dreams.

"I look to the times when I'm with you to keep me alive and strong..."

Dealing with a

By Denise

I've never been more afraid in my life than I am right now. The past few months have been one of the most painful, frightening, and stressful times for myself and my family that I can remember. On May 11th, a few days after I forced my ailing self to go to the junior prom, I was admitted to New England Medical Center. I was immediately placed on IV antibiotics, 5 liters of oxygen, and a rigorous schedule of physical therapy. At first everyone, especially me, ignorantly thought this would be a typical two-week clean out for my Cystic Fibrosis which would be fine; I was used to that. Well two weeks came and went as did 3 weeks . . . 4 weeks . . . and 5 weeks. Things were not improving as they should've been and it was time to realize that my lung function had taken a permanent tumble downward. I guess that is what they mean when they say CF is "progressive." I figure I had just always expected that "progressive" part to happen when I was older or at least wait until I was out of high school!

It all just seemed so sudden and so unfair. I had to go from being a socially active, energetic, spontaneous young woman with a moderately normal life to a nearly house bound patient with physical therapy 3 times per day and who would have to have an oxygen cannula up her nostrils twenty- four hours per day. Strangely enough, I came home on the 40th day and seemed to handle everything pretty well. This new "lifestyle" wasn't the scary part; yes, it was frustrating and sad, but not scary.

What I was most afraid of was the knowledge that this was not the end; but it was only a harbinger of the end. Seventeen year olds are supposed to think they're gonna live forever; they're supposed to dream of going to college, getting a job, getting married, having kids, even grandkids. People criticize us for thinking ourselves to be immortal and invincible . . . . I say let us believe it. I know what it's like to stare into the face of your glaring mortality and hear the blood curdling screams of your humanity and I envy all of those happy morons sipping on beers and ignorantly smiling to themselves. They think the world is theirs for the taking and you know what . . . it is.

Terminal Illness

Furtado

I know my choices and opportunities have more limits on them now but they haven't disappeared yet. I'm going to go on living day to day with at least a peripheral view of a possible future. Right now the scariest thing I face is the fact that somewhere down the not-so-long line my options are going to be certain death vs. possible death and I am not the only one allowed in on the decision making. Let me explain: I'm currently trying to get on a list of possible lung transplant recipients. I have just completed an extensive battery of tests and pending their evaluation I will be notified if I am an appropriate candidate. If I am, then my name will be added to the existing waiting list. The average waiting period is said to be 2 years but can vary greatly since a person's rank in preference in not always static but depends on several factors like blood group, and condition of others on the list. Unfortunately, 33% of people will die while still on the list. My friend John was one of those people. If your number does come up, however, you have a shot at a new life. Even so, the first year survival rate is roughly 75% nationally, which means 1 in 4 don't make it and that number is even greater for 2nd year survival and since this is a relatively new procedure, statistics for 3rd and 4th year aren't really available yet. All I can do is hope that I get in the list ASAP and one day soon my beeper will go off and I'll be rushed into Mass General Hospital for a second chance at a life unrestricted by a ruthless birth defect. I dream of being able to keep up with my friends when we shop at the mall, or to be able to walk down the stage and receive my college degree or even high school diploma unfettered by the portable oxygen tank I carry slung over my shoulder. The thought that I am most bothered by and most afraid of is that I've worked so hard and now I still have all this potential inside of me to go places, to be somebody, to do things, great things even, and I'm so scared and angry that I may never get the chance to try because I'm a slave to a minor flaw in my genetic code. I can't wait till I can breathe a sigh of relief and I mean breathe it with a pair of lungs that will work for me, not against me.

Sequence Shades and Stereos

The Junior Prom was the place to be on May 7, 1993. It was the social climax of the year. Everyone worked to look their very best for the five hours they would spend in the ballroom of the Holiday Inn at Mansfield. Under the dance floor lights, lovers embraced, friends acted friendly, and both the polished as well as the not so polished dancers boogied to the beat of the DJ's deafening stereo speakers. It was a night where memories were made, dreams were fulfilled, and the possibilities were endless.

The theme "When I'm With You," accurately conveyed the thoughts of all those in attendance. For one short night enemies and friends, students and teacher chaperons set aside their differences and were able to successfully proceed through the night's celebration. However, besides the prom theme there were some other more noticeable party themes going on. Guys sporting dark shades, and girls lit up in sparkling sequence were just some of the more observable trends of the night. Prom night is a night where love, friendship, and relationships blossom. What happens from there on after, is all in how you imagined it!

Seniors Go "Coo-Coo" At Sunrise

The senior trip was held on May 25, 1994. At 7:30 a.m. that morning approximately ninety eager SHS seniors along with chaperones: Mr. Kelleher, Mr. Sarno, Mr. Monti, and Mr. Maccini headed to the Sunrise Resort in Moodus, Connecticut.

At 10:00 a.m. when we arrived, we were greeted by the eccentric resort guide named "Coo-Coo". There were so many activities to get involved in such as: canoe racing, tug-of-war, relay races, beach volleyball, shuffleboard and wiffleball. Other options included suntanning, visits to the video arcade, and just hanging out.

The most memorable moments of the class trip were: Chris Gillpatrick's belly-flops off of the high dive, the tug-of-war, canoe-tipping, the barbecue lunch and dancing in the mess hall.

"It was a perfect day for the class trip," recalls Ben Thaler. "It was raining at SHS and while we were at the Sunrise Resort it was hot and sunny and it didn't start raining again until we were on our way home." It was a great day and everyone had a good time. It gave us a chance to hang out, have fun, and live it up before the PROM!!

Who can forget?

Who can forget the night of their senior prom? The elegance . . . the dance . . . and true life romance of it all stays forever imprinted in the mind. The girls are layered in sequins, covered with lace, accentuated by satin or highlighted by chiffon while the guys stick to the basics: black tux, bow tie with your choice of a vest or cummerbund.

Who can forget the place of their senior prom, the time or the date? Lakeview Pavillion, Foxboro, the twenty-seventh of May, nineteen-hundred and ninety-four. At seven p.m. white limousines pulled up to the front door to recieve the red carpet treatment and greetings from Mr. Kelleher, the class adviser (who looked quite dapper in his tux), Mr. Sarno, and the other chaperones.

Who can forget the theme of their senior prom, especially when the theme is all about remembering? The theme of the night was the Billy Joel song: "These Are The Times To Remember." An excellent choice because it made everyone realize that they must hold on to the prom and other memories of Stoughton High School, as they embark on new and exciting frontiers in the years to come. If you haven't quite figured it out by now the senior prom is one of the those events in a person's life one should always remember. It's ranked right up there with your girlfriend or boyfriend's birthday and anniversaries.

Honored Guests, Parents, Relatives, Friends, and Class of '94 so . . . it's finally almost over. Four years of homework, tests, deadlines, all sorts of grind. Everyone rolls back their eyes and says they can't wait to get out of here. But high school was more than just academics and grades. It held several bends in the road for everyone - epiphanies as Ms. Buckley would love to call it.

We came from Jr. High as a homogenized class - everyone had big hair, carried Esprit bags, wore Champion sweatshirts, Vuarnet T-shirts, listened to ZOU. Everyone was in band or chorus. We all had to walk down the halls one way only. Basically we were all the same - you had to have what everyone else had or you didn't fit in. Now look at us. We have people who excel in sports, we have people who excel in academics, we have people who excel in music and drama, we even have people with purple hair.

High School for every one of us was an experience - whether good or bad - and helped us to break away from the herd and find our own definition of ourselves. Given there are still those who blindly follow the crowd, eager to please all. There always will be. But that's what college is for. I mean, yes, we go to college to learn and further our education and intellectual lives, but really, we all know that college is just another institution for experience just as high school was, except with more room for maturity and independence. Academics should be part of that experience, but not all.

And for those of you who choose n to continue their education in college have to respect you just as much becau you choose to plunge immediately in the real world while the rest of us try avoid it for four more years.

I could go on praising our class - c great football team, softball team, tra team, the underrated math team . . could go on and on and everyone cou cheer and cheer. But, I think we know how great our class was and should go without saying that it's b cause each one of us contributed som thing different to this class that we we able to accomplish so much.

In the course of our lives we will likely encounter many social problems . . . hunger, homelessness, violence, drug abuse, crime, but perhaps the greatest evil of all is apathy. This collective indifference and hopelessness is what makes our problems seem insurmountable, and our dreams seem much too daring. there is hope, however, for when each individual takes responsibility for improving his/her little corner of the world, our situation improves. If nothing else, at least cheer someone up, for kindness to a single individual spurs a chain reaction of kind acts. It has been said, "A loving person lives in a loving world. A hostile person lives in a hostile world. Everyone you meet is your mirror." (Ken Keyes, Jr.) Choose the loving world and reflect that love to as many people as possible, for that in itself is a huge success. (A.P.L.)

But Our Future Has Just Begun: (Left) The Three Stoogers and one Dr. Harrington at Commencement. (Middle L To R) Last but not least we have the 3 Z's. Dibona takes the diploma home. Diane Couto and her diploma . . . "Did I just graduate?" (Bottom) Marching in a line proved to be more of a problem than one might have thought.

"There is a time in every person's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance; that imitation is suicide; That he must take himself for better, for worse as his portion." As we have come to realize this, in one form or another, we no longer compete with each other, but rather with ourselves. We now seek to express rather than to suppress our own unique personalities. And we have come to accept and like ourselves, aptitudes, talents, flaws and all, and have determined to make the best of what we have been blessed with. We graduate today ready to take on the world as Emerson described it, ". . . all gates, all opportunities, strings of tension waiting to be struck." I wish you all the very best of luck and the greatest happiness in striking those strings. (A.P.L.)

Beach Balls, Screams and Memories:

Thoughts On Our Final Day

May 19, 1994

Today was the day - our last day of high school. Finals were completed and the only thing left to stand between us and freedom was the senior assembly. Following a brief stint in homeroom, we were ushered directly over to the auditorium. Teachers blocked all of the other doors. We had to proceed straight to the assembly, without detour. Not one of us minded.

As we all took our seats and got ready to hear the parting words of our principal, we were suddenly immersed in a brilliant swirl of color and movement. Beach balls. Not one, not two, not even ten. More than twenty balls of every design and hue began to fly about the room, bouncing off fists and chairs and heads. Three minutes passed and Mr. Sarno stood watching, a slight grin playing across his face. Instead of immediately putting a stop to the fun, he let us continue, not uttering a word of protest.

Time passed and as if by magic, the beach balls stopped flying and we again settled down to listen. As a contrast to previous assemblies, the noise level remained at a minimum following the brief outburst and decorum was maintained. Mr. Sarno began his speech and we listened intently, slight grins playing across our own faces as he complimented the class. When his short but meaningful speech was complete, we were asked if we had any questions. Queries about Class Night and Graduation were answered. Then someone asked if Mr. Kelleher would make a speech. Despite his initial hesitation he soon complied, doing his best to improvise - and succeeding.

One more explosion of beach balls took place while schedules were being issued and then Mr. Sarno issued two final requests. First, he cautioned us to remember that safety always come first, whether it need apply today or to any other day, for the rest of our lives. And then, he told us to be careful of green man, the symbolism of which was immediately understood. If we're planning to visit a certain rival town, we had better realize that the town would be ready. Advice well heeded, we were sent on our way. A rousing cheer was emitted and we quickly filed out. Again, all but the route leading directly out to our cars was blocked by administrators. And again, not one of us minded. We headed to our cars and began our victory laps around the High School. We quickly learned that our own town was also ready, but nothing could spoil our fun. Horns blaring, people screaming, we knew that it was all over. Simultaneously saddened and relieved, but most importantly, free at last. Even the presence of police couldn't pull down the class of 1994's high spirits because in one week's time we would graduate.

To the Class of 1994:

On behalf of the Stoughton High School Administration, faculty and staff, I wish to congratulate the members of the Class of 1994 upon the successful completion of their high school career.

The Class of 1994 has displayed a true appreciation for their school and community as demonstrated by the success of their newly established community service program.

I have admired your sense of family, particularly the time you have spent listening to each other, celebrating your differences and joining together to find common goals. As a class you have been leaders in the principles of tolerance and respect for all people.

The Class of 1994 is also the first to graduate since the passing of the Education Reform Act. Several of you quickly volunteered to assist in its implemantation, determined that classes to follow will benefit from your experience and insight.

I am confident that no barrier will be too difficult for you to overcome.

Good luck in all of your future endeavors.

Sincerely,

GEOFFREY M FANNING
SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Dear Members of the Class of 1994,

The Stoughton Public Schools have endeavored to equip you with lifelong learning skills that you will need for a productive work life and active citizenship. Today, education must be more than that. The need for schools to play an active role in shaping character has only grown more imperative. It must produce not only good learners, but good people who care about the welfare of others.

Your academic and athletic records reflect your notable achievements. You are to be commended for these accomplishments. I would like to also recognize the many successes of your service organizations such as Peer Leadership, Student Council, National Honor Society, SADD, and others. The activities conducted by these groups and other individual actions have displayed your concerns for the welfare of your schoolmates and the community. It is for this reason, in coujunction with your scholastic records, that your class is recognized as being outstanding.

I would like to extend my personal congratulations to each member of the Senior class. Please continue with your efforts to make a more caring world and a stronger nation. Best wishes in the years ahead.

Sincerely,

Geoffrey M. Fanning
Superintendent of Schools

Dear Members of the Class of 1994,

On behalf of the Stoughton School Committee, I would like to extend to you our sincere congratulations. Your outstanding accomplishments, both individually and as a class, reflect your efforts and commitment to achieving excellence. You have done so with pride and integrity, and for this, we applaud you.

For you, Senior year and graduation have been a blending of joys and fears. Concerns with schoolwork, the college application process, and related career choices have beeu commingled with sporting and artistic events, proms, and other social activities. As a parent of a senior, I have seen the impact of these exciting times. This is a wonderful time in your life and this book will serve to rekindle these thoughts and feelings.

As time marches on, so must you. The Stoughton Public Schools, with tremendous community support, have endeavored to prepare each of you as an active, responsible citizen who will contribute to the betterment of mankind. Your education has not ended, rather it has just begun, for learning is a lifelong process. Use the knowledge you have acquired to better our world. Accept responsibility and take an active part in shaping your own future. The world will be what you make it. Best wishes in your future endeavors.

Sincerely,

Paul Landry, Chairman
Stoughton School Committee

The Black Knight Cafe is a student operated restaurant which serves lunch to faculty and staff twice each month. The nine students enrolled in the vocational/life skills program learn kitchen safety, hygiene, food preparation, serving and cleaning techniques. Employment opportunities within the food service industry and independent community living are explored and reinforced through daily activities.

Through hands-on learning activities, the students inventory supplies, develop a market list, shop at Shaw's Supermarket and prepare a variety of menu items. At the cafe students present a multi-item salad bar and serve a hot entree such as lasagna or quiche. The final cafe of the school year is a buffet luncheon which includes an impressive array of hot and cold items selected by the students. Our famous Black Knight Chocolate Chips are popular with staff and students alike. The success of the Black Knight Cafe is due in large part to the help of students like Tim Roberson, Rebecca Zimmerman, Laura Zimmerman, Jessica Beeman, Paulette DeAndrade, Susan Fitzpatrick, Keara Hurley, and Jason Rosati.

Physics Students Take Flight With Airplane Day

One highlight of the senior year was the "Tenth Annual Airplane Day," designed by Mr. Michael Carey, physics extraordinaire. The purpose of this project was for the students to design and launch a paper airplane using his/her knowledge of aerodynamics and the basic principles of flight. In order to earn a grade of A, your planes had to fly from one end of the auditorium to the other and remain in the air for more than three seconds. Through the eyes of a physics student, the auditorium has never looked so big. Although many planes only made it half way, high marks were given to students for their dramatic performances of begging and pleading. Also, it wouldn't be very surprising if ten years from now, some of those planes finally fall out of the ceiling rafters.

But, as for the added oxygen that has been reaching the brain, that can be attributed to the new location's spacious quarters.

No longer does paint peel, lighting fixtures flicker, outdated materials remain untouched on dusty shelves. New furnishings, as a part of the renovations, have been purchased for the library and, for the first time in many years, an array of current literature will replace its outdated predecessors on a set of new bookshelves. A Lesson In History

Students Help To Educate The Public

When a group of teachers received a grant from the Danforth Foundation to start an Action Study Group, they thought a house tour, of Stoughton's Historic Homes, would benefit the students as well as the community. And so began the first ever Historic House Tour, Sunday, May 1, 1994.

Each group of students were assigned to a historical site/home in Stoughton which they then researched and went on to explain as they played tour guide to the public. It was hoped that through working together, discovering the routes of the community the Historic House Tours would somehow have a positive impact on students' lives while furnishing them with a lesson in history.

The tour began in the cafeteria of Stoughton High School at 12:00pm and displayed country store booths covered with foods (prepared by the freshmen class and Dorothy Jean's Bakery) of historical authenticity with music, arranged by Stoughton's Musicologist Roger Hall. The success of this event was the result of a schoolwide effort from the shop classes constructing models of the homes being toured to the art classes creating posters and brochures to advertise the event. Guest speakers like Mrs. Barbara O'Donnell, a former guidance counselor at SHS, shared with her students her knowledge of Stoughton when it was a rural community, so the students, in turn, would be able to share the information with the people on the tour.

From the cafeteria the public got in to buses to tour around Stoughton. Some sites seen on the tour were The Pearl Street Cemetery, The Railroad Station, The Lucius CLAPP Memorial (the site of the Stoughton Historical Society) and an assortment of old colonial homes. The tour was a non-profit event, all proceeds went into a fund to be used for the worthwhile aims of SHS and the community.

The Class

70's Revisited

The class of '94 turned the clock back to a decade which had its own sense of style, politics, and idea of what's normal, a time immediately after the hippies reign. It was really far-out and groovy to see classmates wearing polyester suits, paisley prints, bell bottoms, crushed velvet, and love beads. After all, many important events happened in the seventies. For example we were born, the women's movement was in effect, the Vietnam war came to an end, Watergate distracted our attention and disco music found its beginnings and end all in the 1970s.

Although we may laugh at the hair-dos, clothing, and styles of the times, many of these fashion trends have come back at one time or another to haunt us. Believe it or not, "THE VILLAGE PEOPLE" made a guest appearance at Stoughton High School in honor of seventies day! (Members of SHS Village People included: Derek Small, Mary Ferrazzi, Henry Wong, Joe Murphy, and Jason Snyder.)

The Funny . . . . The Serious . . . . The Class of 1994

To the Class of 1994:

As our high school careers end, it is time to move on to the new and unknown. This transition is often unpredictable, exciting, and frightening. We will be doing new things, meeting new people, and slowly distancing ourselves from what we considered familiar.

Many people I have talked to recall this transition period. One similarity seemingly everyone acknowledges is how they have grown apart from their high school friends. This is the one thing I'm scared of.

The problem is not that I don't want to meet new people. It's not that I wish to remain at Stoughton High either - believe me. I'm ready for a change. But the problem lies in losing contact with people I have spent four quality years with. The memories, accolades, and fun our class has shared together is a part of me that will always remain whether it be spirit halls or toilet papering people's houses. Our class always bonded together - so much to the point where I feel we have exceeded being a class, and have become a family.

What is unique about our class is how close everyone is with one another. Everybody looks out for each other as if they were truly related. Never again will I meet so many people as caring, concerning, and good-natured for one another.

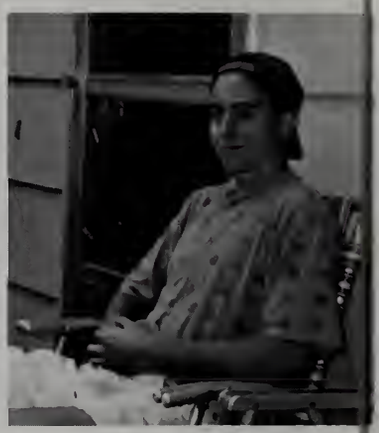
Why must we grow apart then? We already know the Class of '94 is like no other that preceded or will follow us. That is why this problem I fear may actually already be resolved. Maybe I didn't need to tell this to you at all. Maybe we will all still keep in touch and share our new experiences, happiness, and joys. I hope that to be the case.

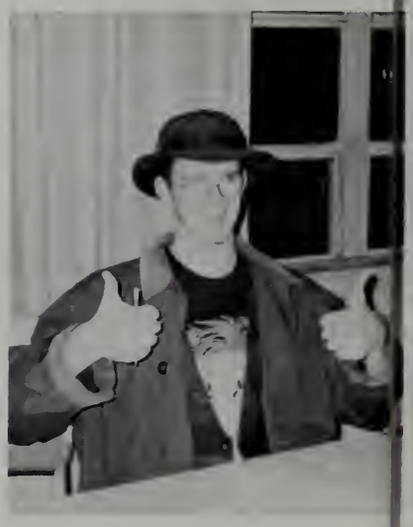
So, as you occasionally flip through this yearbook, don't be afraid to call that friend whom you haven't talked to in awhile. Reminisce about your good times with them. A five minute phone call may be the difference between a life-time friendship and an old forgotten friend. After all, you should always make new friends, but never ever lose your old friendships.

I wish the entire Class of 1994 the best of luck and joy in whatever they do. Be patient, have fun and always smile.

Respectfully yours,

Jeffrey Croke
Class President





Mr. Kelleher Speaks

TO THE CLASS OF 94

IN SEPTEMBER OF 1988, THE ADVENTURE BEGAN,AS YOUR CLASS WAS ASSEMBLED TOGETHER FOR THE FIRST TIME, AS SEVENTH GRADERS. I WAS THERE TO SEE IT. IN SEPTEMBER OF 1990 YOU FIRST ENTERED THE HIGH SCHOOL, AS FRESHMEN, AND I WAS THERE TO SEE THAT. NOW YOU'RE GRADUATING, AND I'M STILL HERE. IT'S BEEN GREAT TO BE ALONG FOR THE RIDE FROM PIRATE SHIPS TO CRESCENT RIDGE,FROM "POWDER PUFF" TO PROMS, WITH A FEW CLASSES IN BETWEEN.
SOMEWHERE IN THERE , OUR RELATIONSHIP WENT FROM TEACHER, AND STUDENTS, TO FRIENDS WHO FELT THAT THEY WERE ALL IN THIS TOGETHER, AND GOT IT DONE.

IT HAS BEEN A PRIVLEDGE TO WATCH AND SOMETIMES HELP, AS YOU GREW AS STUDENTS, ATHLETES AND MOST IMPORTANTLY AS PEOPLE. YOU STARTED OUT GREAT AND JUST GOT BETTER. YOU ARE A VERY SPECIAL GROUP, AND LUCKY TO HAVE EACH OTHER. IT HAS BEEN AN HONOR FOR ME TO SHARE THIS PART OF YOUR LIVES

NOW, YOU MUST KEEP THE ADVENTURE GOING, BUT THIS TIME IN MANY DIFFERENT DIRECTIONS. I KNOW YOU WILL DO WELL. YOU HAVE THE MINDS AND MORE IMPORTANTLY THE HEARTS NECESSARY TO BE SUCCESSFUL
I THANK YOU ALL FOR WHAT YOU HAVE GIVEN ME OVER THE PAST SIX YEARS. I WILL ALWAYS TREASURE YOUR FRIENDSHIP. IT IS NOT NECESSARY TO SAY GOOD BYE, JUST BEST OF LUCK AND "I'LL SEE YOU LATER."

TAKE CARE ALWAYS

Student Council President's Farewell Address

Greetings from the Student Council President Stephen Hansen. On behalf of the 1993-1994 Student Council and myself, I would like to wish the student body a very safe and prosperous future. Whether you are moving on to a major university or traveling the alphabetized halls of Stoughton High, may your coming years be full of hard work and a little fun. (You're not going anywhere without the ladder, remember that!)

Throughout the year, the Student Council provided a lot of community and school-based projects which again were very successful and loads of fun. The canned food drive during the spirit week allowed for the food pantry to once again have stocked shelves. The talent show and elderly dinner were other highlights for the Student Council, which was advised by the first guru Mr. William Limbey. Above all, the student council pulled through a rather challenging year with countless successes and a few smiles!

Now, that I am leaving I would like to share with you many of my own thoughts about Stoughton High. First, I feel that our faculty and administration should be commended to the highest degree because of their professionalism and ability to deliver fair and respected material. The teachers have been there for me after school, before school, and even during lunch, when I needed a professional opinion about anything ranging from the quadratic formula to types of skis.

A word of advice: Take advantage of the teachers and go seek advice or even help on homework. Secondly, I would like to strongly urge those who feel that getting involved will take away from Donahue and Oprah to please do yourself a favor and do something constructive for yourself and your school. This school offers so much, whether it is Alternate Infinity, AP courses, or varsity soccer, but it is up to you to take advantage of what is available. This may take some hard work and a few late nights, but it will pay off.

For me, I came into the high school as a student who had to make a name for himself in both activities and academics. Nothing came easy to me because it doesn't come easy to anyone; however, you work, things will eventually com to you. Just ask some of the studen graduating from the class of 1994 if yo don't believe me. They will tell you th only hard work will get you into Ha vard or the University of Pennsylvania. guess I'm saying that it is never too la to start busting your butt in your classe or join a club because it will benefit yo come college time.

Lastly, I want to explain to you, th student body, that we are all individua and that we should do what we want an not what a certain group wants us to d Don't be led, but be a leader who doe things your own way. Remembe what's cool for you may not be cool fo your friends, but who cares? It's you life so, live it up.

Well, it's time for me to close shop o a great four years at Stoughton High. will always remember my years here an I hope you do too. This is a great scho with great people inhabiting it. In clos ing, just remember these words: This your school; don't deny yourself its op portunities.

Extra-curricular Activity . . .
No Longer Just Apart Of The School

Law Club, Project Recycle, National Honors Society, Student Council; in the past clubs and organizations such as these have become a fixture in the afterschool life that springs into action every day after the 2:09 pm bell has rung. However, what was at one time a club or organization that existed simply within the school for a few select students has now been extended into the community.

With the Student Council's sponsoring of the Elderly Dinner, National Honor Society's assistance at the Stoughton Food Pantry, and a sampling of students ranging from freshmen to seniors showing support for the May 1st Historical House Tour through research and posing as tour guide, headlines are being forged to relay a message SHS has always known to be true. Stoughton students have learned the lessons of lending a helping hand and the importance of community which is something no curriculum effectively emphasizes.

While not all extra-curricular activities will transcend the boundaries of school and enter the community, the activism of groups, represented by the National Honor Society's participation and concern for its neighbors helps to downsize the common misconception that it is a club that hosts an Easter Seals Basketball Shoot Out and sells flowers where red means love, pink is for friendship and white represents secret admirer. Because it's easy to get into a do-nothing mode, that is why instances such as these make a club's existence worthwhile. We should let extra-curricular activities prove to benefit us all, in the school AND THE COMMUNITY!

It's The Law

The Law Club suffered a devastating loss this year, with the untimely and tragic death of its president, Denise Furtado. In attempting to deal with their grief productively and carry out Denise's final wishes, the club set about collecting signatures on a petition to increase awareness about organ donation. The club also sponsored two fund raisers, eventually donating $500 to a scholarship fund in loving memory of Denise.

On a more positive note, Law Club sponsored legal speakers including Dr. Nancy Murray of the Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union who spoke about student's rights. Attorney Kevin Reddington also spoke about his work as a defense counselor. Law Club extends their sincere thank you to adviser Marilyn Berman for her consistent support throughout the year.

It's Unheard Of: A Model Senate

Model Senate is an activity for juniors and seniors. Students make up bills to take to a Quasi Senate meeting. SHS students meet with students from other schools, and everyone discusses the bills they've created. It is an activity that allows young people to explore new ideas to age-old problems. Through exercises such as this the future generation learns of where it's going and acquires the skills necessary to take them there.

THE KNIGHT

The Knight is the school newspaper which welcomes the submission of news stories, feature stories, sports stories, photographs and illustrations of issues of importance concerning Stoughton High School. It's distributed five times a year. The Knight underwent some changes this year. The price was raised from 25 cents to 50 cents, the staff experimented with the color blue and produced 24 pages of cutting edge, topical material in every issue. The last two issues of The Knight were enhanced dramatically by the artistic talents of sophomore Nelson Correia (Illustrator). This was also the year the SHS was dropped from the title.

> "The Writings Are My Only Wings Away"

WINGS

The SHS Literary Magazine is an annual publication showing student literary talent. Whether it be poetry or short story, fiction or non-fiction every piece of writing is assured to take the reader beyond the black and white print of the page. Stretch the imagination and see where it takes you. Wings cost to students and faculty is one dollar.

Leading

Scientists

Science Olympiad is a program for students who enjoy the sciences. Whether it's biological, chemical, physical or natural, everything from A to Z could be a question you might be asked to answer. This is not a written test like the Math Olympiads. In fact, one might call it the "Double Dare" of science where everyone at one time or another has to take the physical challenge. Shooting a basketball, running relay . . . it's all scientific. Understanding the science of one's own body . . . well there is a study of science for that too.

Peer Leadership has been active in Stoughton for seven years and has been associated with the Drug Free Schools Grant for the last three years. Members work with a variety of regional, local and national groups and organizations to promote harmony, understanding, and education concerning our diverse cultures, a substance-free lifestyle, equality on gender issues, the avoidance of peer pressure and the acquisition of leadership skills. They meet weekly, planning and coordinating the schedule and discussing current issues. Peer Leadership representatives meet with students from thirty-two other schools at a conference on diversity and plan several activities for spring.

Leading Our Peers

The Recycling Club is a group of students who care about the environment and work to educate people, so they too can stand guard, acting responsibly to reduce pollution. The Recycling Club has organized a program to return all five-cent deposit cans and to recycle all non-refundable aluminum drink cans. However, under the administration of this year's President Nancy Mendonca and staff the Recycling Club has ushered in a paper recycling program that will help to minimize the school's waste. Ideally, every Stoughton Public School will one day be recycling its paper.

Leading The Environment

Hot Croissants and Claude Monet

Who would ever imagine that conjugating verbs would someday pay off? Well, it did because during April vacation a special group of kids from SHS went abroad for a cultural experience in the most beautiful city in the world. PARIS!!

On the first day after a breakfast of hot croissants, we took a tour of Paris with our courier Andy. We saw the Opera, The Louvre Museum, The Arc de Triomphe, Notre Dame cathedral, and a model photo shoot in progress! Another day was spent in the Loire Valley visiting the famous medieval - style castles which served as summer homes for French Monarchs. Our last major day trip was spent at the home of impressionist painter, Claude Monet. His home and gardens were filled with a plethora of vibrant hues. It was easy to see where his inspiration came from.

Our nights were spent dining at restaurants and cafe hopping. Our favorite restaurant was the "Cosmos Cafe." This trip was filled with sightseeing, shopping, and excellent cuisine. In case you are wondering, we did meet a Jean-Luc!!

Washington Up Close

The week of March 6th - 12th was one of discovery, amazement, and lack of sleep. The thirteen Stoughton High juniors and seniors who participated in the annual trip to Washington D.C. were not expecting a full week of workshops, seminars, and daily doses of pure sludge, but that's what they got. During the course of a day a Close-Up student would rise at 6:45 and work straight through until approximately 10:30. In between the wake-up calls and the nightly room checks, the days were packed with visits to various historical monuments, such as, the Lincoln Memorial, Iwo Jima and the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial.

Over the course of one week's time the group heard many government officials speak from the Commissioner of the IRS to Federal Prosecutors right on down the line to Pentagon Officials. The highlight of the week, however was getting to speak with Senators Kerry and Kennedy. But, as for those people, who need not be mentioned (you know who you are), who got to see the insides of Representative Moakley's office they experienced something they will not soon forget. And the most significant thing this year's Close-Up group returned to Stoughton with wasn't the photographs of some of America's most historic monuments, it wasn't the souvenir T-shirt or magnet for mom, it was by and large the list of phone numbers to some of Washington's most influential officials.

Now That's The Spain I'll Remember!!

During April vacation, Mr. Nuno Vieira took a group of 24 students on his annual outing to Spain where we visited the island of Mallorca, the cities of Barcelona and Madrid with a short, one day stop off in Toledo. The trip has held many memories along with some surprises that has helped all of those who went grow in ways some people never thought a group of highschool juniors and seniors could. From the cathedrals of Madrid La Sacrada Familia or The Holy Family to the site of the 1992 Summer Olympics, Spain has been an experience of a life-time none of us will soon forget.

But, when the sun goes down and the heat of the day has subsided there was the night life of Spain to all hours of the morning. In a country where discos are rated by the time they open there will always be some place to go after midnight. Our group had the opportunity to go to two discos. We had gotten hardly any sleep and we still weren't used to the nine hour time difference when it was all but time to go home. So, there we were, a group of 24 students walking to the subway station in the nippy Spain air at 12:00 a.m., scheduled to be back at the hotel by 4:00 and leaving to come back to the States on a 7:00 a.m. flight. Needless to say, we didn't get any sleep that night and half of us were sick because of it. However, that never got in the way of our fun.

The Bottle And The Car
They Just Don't Mix

S.A.D.D.'s goal is to make you aware of the risks involved with alcohol and drug abuse. Members accomplish this through a seies of activities: making announcements at critical times of the year; writing newspaper articles; distributing message cards; providing red ribbons; hanging posters; creating bulletin boards and a billboard.

This year, inmates from the Norfolk County Drug and Alcohol Prevention Program were invited to speak to the students. The club, in the past, has also worked with Randolph High School to create a regional S.A.D.D. organization.

The Universe

Alternate Infinity is for students interested in science fiction, horror, suspense and imaginative and speculative literature and occult literature and films.

Students address the questions raised by authors of this literature of change to help them cope with change in their own lives. They reflect on the problems they share with all humanity on a planet with problems of ecological balance, human/machine interaction, new technologies and even the survival of the planet itself. The broad category of "science fiction" as the only future-oriented literature, has the ability to provide some answers. The group meets weekly.

Future Mathematicians Of America

This year's math team consisted of three competitive parts, all of which the school has had success in: Southeastern Massachusetts Math League (SMML), the New England Math League (NEML) and the Math Olympiad tests.

The SMML competitions are the ones that most people are familiar with. A selected team travels to competition sites and participates in 5 rounds: Arithmetic, Algebra I, Geometry, Algebra II, Advanced Topics and Trigonometry, in addition to one Team Round. Each member of the team tries to gain as many points of a perfect score of 6 as possible per round (1st question = 1pt, 2nd question = 2pt, 3rd question = 3pt etc.)

At the close of this year's season the math team was in fourth place out of 23 teams in the league, finishing behind Dover-Sherborn, Randolph, and Sharon, respectively. Stoughton was one place away from advancing to the state-level competition, which is certainly an amazing accomplishment.

High scorers for the season of four regular competitions and a play-off competition were Alissa Fredberg, John Markow, Dan Saval, Snehal Patel, Barbara Huppe, Veronica Vieira, Michael Hahn, Steven Cohn, and Micah Symynkywicz.

Stoughton is also a member of NEML which consists of six half-hour tests taken on Tuesday afternoons when scheduled. Anyone from the school may take the tests, but only the top scores are recorded for league records. After five tests, the top scorers were John Markow, Alissa Fredberg, Dan Saval, Veronica Vieira, Max Igolnikov, Barbara Huppe, Steven Cohn and Michael Hahn.

The third event in which the math team participates is the Math Olympiad. As you know, many students scored well on the first round test taken in the fall. However this year, one student, John Markow, participated in the second round of the Olympiad. Only about 150 students in the state were selected to compete in this round.

This year Stoughton High School got to play host for the SMML playoffs in the cafeteria. The event ran quite smoothly, thanks to the help of teachers like Ms. Foley and Mrs. Rosenburg. The Math Team would like to thank its two advisers, Ms. Churchill and Mr. Woodruff, for everything they've done this year in terms of coordination and practice sessions.

"Who will ever forget the night 80 seniors came to our Wednesday night meeting to discuss yearbook."

A Year Of Controversy

By Peter Cochrane

We were 15 people in the summer of 1993, out on the streets, pounding the pavement for advertisements (money that would finance a $13,000 yearbook contract) when we came up with our theme, Beyond Words. But, as the summer came to an end and the autumn took over, we were four individuals making decisions, attending seminars and informational meetings to proceed with the task ahead of us. The task of producing the best yearbook this school has ever seen. Despite rumors, misunderstandings and miscommunications on most everyone's part, so began the first of three controversies which would set the tone for the year.

Scandal number one ignited itself at the senior assembly during the first week of school. The complaint was over including underclassmen in the yearbook and on the yearbook staff. Seniors didn't want underclassmen working on the 1994 Yearbook because it had never been done in the past, and it was to be the seniors' yearbook and the seniors' alone. To this day, I still don't see what the problem was. However, a senior class meeting had been called to discuss the matter and I was there, even though no class officer appeared and only two students showed up. Check out pages 86 to 91: this was what I had in mind for including the underclassmen.

From the middle of September to the middle of October the yearbook received a reprieve while the second controversy demanded the attention of the senior class. Scandal number two grew into what I shall always remember as the "Cover Controversy." It was a case of color schemes. The contemptuous, disgusting, vile combination of maroon and cream over orange and black, orange and white or the last several year's trend of black and gold. Well, it wasn't that maroon and cream was some great combination of colors. In fact, when four of us attended the cover seminar at the start of October we were taken into a room filled with sample covers. There were shiny Dr. Seuss style covers, felt velveteen ones, plain covers, covers with gold and silver foil on them, smooth leather covers, leather with texture; the possibilities seemed endless. So, after a half-hour or so of heated debate it was decision time. We wanted a black leather cover with a gold template comprised of a collage of words significant to a high school senior. However, then to our shock, we found that the cover had all but been chosen for us. Stated in our contract, we were to have a silk screen cover consisting of some two color combination of our choice. And so began the controversy over maroon and cream. After having considered all possible colors and ultimately deciding against black and orange because no one wanted to see Serendipity be reincarnated in Beyond Words, we agreed to maroon and cream.

By the end of October to the beginning of November we were approximately 80 angered students, at least for a night of shared yelling, screaming and complaining to be heard. However, after numerous meetings between the class officers, Mr. Kelleher, Mr. Sarno and yearbook staff members an agreement had been reached. A black cover with gold foil lettering would illustrate the knight's helmet and shield that came to grace the cover of the yearbook. It was at this point that the idealism of Mr. Sarno and his desire to have the yearbook be free to every graduating senior, died.

By now, it was the month of December and senior write-ups were due and the yearbook once again found itself in the midst of an "Abbreviated Controversy." The complaint for the month of December posed two questions for the yearbook to answer. "Why can't I abbreviate? Why must I follow the rules?" This wasn't as wide-spread of a controversy as the two others, but it did impede the process of producing the yearbook and contributed to the missing of deadlines. When three students wrote a petition to Mr. Sarno asking that a student/faculty comittee be established to oversee decisions made by the yearbook staff there was bound to be more meetings. These controversies became set-backs. After all the controversies, after all the complaints, after all that unnecessary grief, the yearbook slipped out of the senior class' mind and out of the 80 dedicated, devoted students who back in October wanted to be so involved with the yearbook; attendance and interest at any given time returned to 4 or 5 of us.

BUT WE SURVIVED!!! Survived to bring you, the Class of '94, a yearbook that I hope all will enjoy. Some of the new additions and yearbook firsts that separate the '94 book from its predecessors are the introduction and table of contents pages, the working section, class pictures of the underclassmen and a comprehensive listing of what colleges SHS students will be attending next year. But, beyond the new additions to the yearbook this year's book will stand alone as the first to reembrace an old concept of less is more. Now, you can put away your magnifying glass because this year we chose to eliminate the excessive number of pictures as in years past by sticking to no more than 4 to 6 pictures to a page. Consequently, we decided to supplement the pages with more articles. Because a picture is worth a thousand words, none of which will be remembered in 20 years, we chose to make it easy on you and write it down. The last few unique aspects of this yearbook are its use of folio art, gray tones to highlight scoreboards, the incorporation of graphics in the student activity section and creative titling of articles. Put it all together and you have a book that is years ahead of even the most recent edition, the 1993 yearbook.

I'd like to thank Mrs. Pappas for all the long days and nights she put into producing this book and helping to keep the sanity of yearbook level. Thanks to all the members of the summer staff for doing the hardest job of all . . . . getting sponsors. Lizete, Paula and Eduardo thank you for your work in the fall amidst all that controversy. Heather, Ana, Diane and Gina thanks for all your help through the winter and spring months. Special thanks go to Chi Hae who survived the winter, spring and the beginning of summer and to my sister Barbara, a member of the Class of '91 and friend Michael I can't thank you enough for all your help. You weren't even a member of the Class of '94 yet you came through for me when everyone else had called it quits. Finally, I'd like to extend my sincere thanks to all those who wrote articles for the yearbook, for without you it would be just another year in pictures.

This is a year never to be forgotten. For me it was the year I managed being editor of the yearbook and editor of the newspaper. It was the year I got to play school politics. It was a year I set out to do something memorable, and regardless of what the future holds the yearbook is the only place one will ever see an indepth retelling of our time together at SHS and permit us from time to time to travel back to our youth, to the calendar year, Nineteen-Hundred and Ninety Four.

GOAL!

A young team, the 1993-94 Boys Varsity Soccer Team surpassed most expectations in a valiant effort that led to a second place finish in the Hockomock League with a record of 11-7 and a visit to the South Sectional Tournament. Led by the heady play of senior captains Jeff Fritz, Andy Stone, and Ben Thaler, the Black Knight Booters beat Foxboro not once but twice, a feat never achieved by the soccer team in all its years of existence. Senior Scott Webster and Sophomores Marco Silva and Sadique Hassan gave strong offensive front. Mark Pongonis had a record of 67 saves for the team this season.

In the trip to the tournament, the Black Knights lost to #1 ranked New Bedford, but not without a fight. The moral victory was theirs for the taking - and they took it for all it was worth.

It's All About Pride!!

Pride, Confidence, Desire, Excellence and Enjoyment were a few adjectives that characterized the '93 Girls' Soccer season. "We need to get over this misconception of these fragile nice uncoordinated little girls and look at them as athletes." - Michelle Akers - Women's Soccer Federation. Coach Slater taught this philosophy and the players incorporated it into their seasonal play.

The Lady Knights had a good season. They may have only won a few games but their record doesn't truly reflect all their skill and ability. They booted their way to a 4-8-3 record this season. Team captain and M.V.P. Lauren Piasecki led the kickers onto the pitch for each tough match. Stephanie Carroll and Tara Gregoire were the strength behind the offensive lines of Jen Jannini, Diana Andrade, Tabitha Jannini, Erin Fahey, Sarah Ferguson, Lisa Ormond and Annie Walker. The defense remained tough and determined through each play. Key defenders Analisa Alterisio, Barbara Stewart and Kerry McElaney kept the opponents under control with help from Marie Seager, Traci Feibel, and Doreen Triguerio.

The girls who comprised the varsity squad deserve respect as much as any group which makes up a championship team. They demonstrated all the characteristics of good sportsmanship including the drive, determination, and desire that characterize a true competitor. Each of the girls had to give more of herself than usual because of the team's small size, but no matter how hard they tried or how badly they wanted to win, they just couldn't make up for the noticeable lack of personnel.

If the girls learned anything this season, it's that winning isn't everything. All of the girls can be considered winners because of the good times they shared, the friendships that they formed, and the experiences that they gained.

Making Waves

The girls swim team, coached by Chris Brady, was led by its three captains Amy Nutter, Mary Ferrazzi, and Amy Reardon, who set an outstanding example for the team to live up to. Amy Nutter led the team in the breast stroke; she was part of the relay team and holds the medley record. Mary Ferrazzi holds numerous records including the most career points and the most career first places; she was the first girl ever to score over 500 pts. and get over 50 career wins. Amy Reardon also holds records, but she will probably be remembered best for her record in the back stroke. The captains encouraged the team to never give up, so this year's team set the record for the most relay points earned in a season.

The wins didn't come so easy for the team, but by the end they pulled off miraculous wins, including crushing Brady's personal rival team, Apponequet. The team never stopped cheering! Seniors: Alissa Fredberg, Lisa Kimball, Kim Kramer, Sandra Barrett, Laura Bush, and Erica Schmidt, kept morale up and helped teach the true meaning of team work. Senior, Rachel Kaplan led an outstanding group of divers who went to rack up points for the team. Despite the team's record of 3-12, they learned a lesson which winning could never have taught them and that is "You can do anything when you begin to believe in yourself."

Ready To Rumble: How One Team Tackled The Odds

One of the many bright spots for the class of 1994 was the success of the varsity football team. Coming off a 6-3-1 1993 season, and with many returning starters, coach Greg Burke had high expectations for the upcoming season. The Black Knights were to be led by tri-captains Shawn Tarpey, Greg Keane, and Reggie Debrew.

One of the season's biggest highlights came on the opening night against defending Division B Superbowl Champs, North Quincy. The Knights fought back to pull off the 14-7 upset over the Red Raiders.

They would soon face their first major obstacle of the season when quarterback/captain Shawn Tarpey broke his leg in the third game. Leading receiver, Jim Turner, was called upon to take over the offense. The team united as one and went on to win six straight games, including big victories against Mansfield, Oliver Ames, and Franklin.

During this stretch, senior tailback Aaron Bascon, took the league by storm, averaging over 200 yards/game and would eventually go on to lead the state in rushing. His success also included an appearance on Mike Lynch's "High-5" telecast.

The success of the running game was due, in large part, to a bruising, dominating offensive line consisting of Jim O'Connor, Kevin Gillpatrick, Greg Keane, Jon Tolman, Paul Collins, Chris Gillpatrick, and All-Stars Reggie Debrew and Jim Pane. Also the help of fullback Alan Favors and tight-ends Mike DeGrande and Tom McNeill helped lead to long gains throughout the season.

Defensively, the Black Knights were lead by All-Star linebacker Din Jenkins. The Knights possessed one of the best defensive backfields in the area consisting of Jeremy Pires, Ed Roberts, Mark Pitta, and Jim Turner. Middle linebackers Keith Fredericks and Rick Ross held the opposing running game in check along with a strong defensive line.

The ultimate highlight of the 1993-1994 season, however, was on November 25th at Canton High School. With the courageous return of Shawn Tarpey, the seniors ended their careers by putting to rest the eleven year drought on Thanksgiving, by beating the Bulldogs 30-15, and by closing the season at 8-2, compiling the best record in 17 years.

Touchdown: (Top) TACKLE!!! Who's on top and who's on bottom? 55's on bottom and he wants up. (Bottom Lt.) Your not going anywhere. Don't leave me. (Rt.) Tarpey has the ball and it looks like he plans to keep it.

Running strong

The record of the 1993 Boys Cross Country Team does not begin to reflect the success the team had. At 3-5, the team struggled early in dual meets, but through hard work and dedication managed to do excellent at league and state meets. The team was led by captains Dan Saval and Jeff Croke, while seniors Dave McGarry, Jay Leone and Jim Dias all had integral roles.

The team had early wins against Franklin, Sharon, and rival North Attleboro. Running well during these meets were Rob Sousa, Scott Gibbons, Kyle Fredericks, Snehal Patel, and Joahd Toure. After a strong showing at the Hockomock League Championships, the team began to realize its potential. At the South Shore Principals Meet, the squad captured sixth place out of twenty-nine teams, while at the Eastern Mass Class B Championships they finished twelfth out of thirty-nine teams. Coach Elwell attributed the success of the team to aggressive running and excellent pack times.

Having come on strong in post season meets, the team really shined to gain the respect of both the league and the state. Not only did the team have a successful year, but a fun one. The team developed camaraderie and involved itself in activities such as tag on the football field and spaghetti dinners. The team elected Scott Gibbons as MVP, for this individual ran throughout the season with superior focus and intensity.

The 1993 fall Girls Cross Country season ended with the Lady Knights having a record of 3-5. The eight member squad was led by senior captain Sarah Zimmerman and junior captain Jaime Levine. The other members of the team were: seniors Cindy America, Kristin Crosbie, and foreign exchange student Friederike von Schierstedt, from Germany, junior Lara Bartz who is visiting from Brazil, and freshmen Diane Goncalves and Diane Tremblay.

The team had a rough season plagued with illness and injury, however, they still managed to have fun during those high-speed races and chases that brought the team to win a few meets. The Knights had a strong showing at the League Championship meet held at Borderland State Park. As a result of her placing at this championship meet Sarah Zimmerman was selected to join an elite group of runners for the 1993 Hockomock League All-star team.

On And Off The Field

In the fall of 1993, the SHS girls Field Hockey team was favored to capture the Hockomock League title. Though these were big expectations, the Field Hockey team believed they could come away with it. However, the lack of scoring kept the Lady Knights struggling for wins. Unfortunately, there was not a league title won in the fall of 1993.

The Knights returned as 18 seniors, all of which contributed to the team's success and overall season record of 7-5-6. Though the 1993 edition of the Field Hockey team did not qualify for the state tournament for the first time in ten years, the team remained close and spent many evenings out together, from toilet papering Coach Mark's house to "All you can eat," at Papa Gino's.

There were three powerhouses that contributed greatly in the scoring column, juniors: Sarah Lake and Tracy Fritz, who scored 5 and 4 goals respectively. Senior Tri-Captain, Chrissy Recupero, dominated the team by scoring a total of 9 goals. The three forwards also combined 10 assists. Despite the season's record, Tri-Captains Rachel Sinclair and Brooke Scannell were both named Hockomock League All-Stars. Brooke finished the season with an amazing .66 goals per game average and 11 shutouts, while Rachel scored one goal and 4 assists.

The Spirit Of Stoughton

The 1993-1994 Cheerleading season turned out to be both a successful and very memorable season for this group of hard-working, dedicated athletes. The cheerleaders reached their goals, improving their squad and spreading school spirit throughout S.H.S. Captains Tracy Dolan, Amy Donahue, Maureen Faherty, and Christine McDonald led the team. Other members of the squad included senior Cristina Ferrara, juniors Kelly Gendreau, Tina Muse, Taryn Pascarelli, Nicole Pearl, and sophomores Nina Baptista, Carol Correia, Mandy Faria, Kate Foulsham, Jessica Scott, and Tevaundra Summers.

The cheerleaders organized two car washes to raise money for the coming season. The squad also participated in cheering clinics held in the S.H.S. Gymnasium. The clinics were designed to teach younger girls the basics of cheerleading. A number of these younger girls were selected to cheer at the 1993 Homecoming Game.

Proceeds from the clinics went to cover the expenses of a summer cheering camp. The camp, organized by UCA, consisted of four days of intense dances, cheers, stunts, and team spirit. Cheerleaders found the camp helpful in preparing for the upcoming season.

During the fall the cheerleaders found themselves very busy juggling practice schedules, cheering at soccer and football games, and planning for the Pep Rally. In addition, the SHS Varsity Cheerleaders lent their expertise to the Powder Puff Cheerleaders, preparing the inexperienced young men for their debut at the Powder Puff game. Amidst all the hardwork, the cheerleaders still managed to have fun, be it at sleepover kidnapping the captains, toilet-paperin the football seniors' houses or 6 AM breakfasts.

The winter season was no less de manding than the fall. The girls foun themselves cheering at basketball an ice hockey games, in addition to regula practices. They also competed at a chee ing competition in Lowell, which the found both rewarding and educationa Their efforts and spirit are greatly ap preciated at S.H.S. Congratulations t MVP Nina Baptista, and Maureen Fa herty who received the Sportsmanshi award.

FOUR!!!

The 1994 version of the Stoughton Golf Team was a very talented and young group which seemed to gel as the season moved on. They ended with a 4-10-2 record. However, they played well against the powerhouses of the league and opened many eyes with their surprising victory at the league meet.

Senior Captain Steve Hansen was one of the reasons for the late season surge. He played with lots of desire and an uncanny ability to never give up. He also played well at the league meet finishing eighth overall. Seniors Scott Mulvaney, Eric Frost, Kelly Liston and Keith Mayses provided lots of exciting matches and a dose of comic relief to the entire team. Juniors Lee McColgan and Jeff Clark were important pieces to the team. McColgan built a reputation for himself in the league as a strong player because of his second top ten finish in the league meet. Jeff Clark was the biggest surprise because of his daunting play in the league and his victory in the league meet (the first Stoughton golfer ever to accomplish this). Jeff was rewarded with being selected to the Hockomock All-star team. Sophomores Eric Liston and Samir Ragab also responded by showing lots of poise and potential for years to come.

Overall, this team showed lots of potential, and an ability to perform with anybody at any level. Because of this and the teams obvious youth and talent, the Knights should be aiming for a league title next year.

Swimmers Dive To New Depths

Saturday, February 19th, was the last official day of the Stoughton swimming and diving teams' year. It ended when Joahd Toure and Jamie Woodward left the Hancock pool, in North Quincy, at the MIAA South Sectionals. Under the leadership of a new swimming coach, Bruce Jackman, the team improved its performance from last year, both as a team and in individual performances.

This young team with fewer than ten seasons under its belt continues to improve and produce some of the best swimmers and divers in the area. Junior Jamie Woodward led his two-man diving squad to an undefeated season. Along with sophomore Kyle Dominick, the two divers swept their event at almost every meet. Jamie also went undefeated in the league and won first place at the championships. He ended the season with a 14th place at the MIAA South Sectional Championships, missing the state qualifier by only two places. Senior Captain, Jason Snyder has been Stoughton's top sprinter for the past two years and broke his own 50 yard freestyle record this year with a time of 24.9 seconds. Other seniors Eduardo Caro and Henry Wong played a key role by swimming the crucial breaststroke and butterfly races.

Kyle Dominick, Stoughton's second diver, placed third at league championships. Alan Elefson swam breaststroke and when Stoughton's top 500 yard freestyle man Adam Bird moved away, sophomor Brian Ernst stepped up. Nev comer Nick Christos swa the toughest event, the 20 yard freestyle. Backstroke Alan Basque and Tom Sou both joined the team late the season and helped out the big meets at the end the season. This year's fresl man surprised the league b beating many of our opp nents' upperclassmen. Bria Woodward broke the 10 yard freestyle freshman re ord. Eddie Hurwitz showe strength in the distanc events. Other freshmen Ro bie Yeomans and Sergi Deana were Stoughton's uti ity men, filling in where th were needed.

It Could Have Been A Slam Dunk Season

The Stoughton Black Knights started the season on a rather sour note. With immediate losses in the first few games, the high hopes of winning seemed to be a joke. However, the Black Knights turned things around quickly. Led by the team tri-captains, seniors, Din Jenkins, Jason Blackwell and Pat Mitchell, hard-fought victories were gained. The important ingredients for the team's chemistry were seniors Dave Millien and Shawn Tarpey as well as juniors, Jeff Millien, Mike Grigalunas, and the flashy maneuvers of sophomore guard, Marvin Pardo. Things were looking great. The Black Knights were on a winning streak. More importantly, the team believed that they could achieve the goals set by Coach John Douglas. Unfortunately, the winning streak came to an abrupt end. After being labeled "the hottest team in the league" by Foxboro's line up sheet, the Black Knight heat was extinguished by the team that had ranked them so high, Foxboro. This was followed by a debilitating losing streak. Hopes of making the tournament were shattered. The losses of Mike Grigalunas and Marvin Pardo due to academic ineligibility were significantly noticeable as the Black Knight offense struggled for the remainder of the season.

The Black Knights ended the season slightly under 500pts. The losing record not-withstanding, Coach John Douglas should be commended for his efforts to motivate and jump start the team to play as well as they could. He did everything possible, but in the end the team gave up. Nobody ever really believed that the team could be better than its record showed, not the fans, not the other teams and definitely not the players. They had their good moments, sure, but they did not play to their full capability.

Nothing But Net

Before the season even started, the girls basketball team had an enormous amount of pressure on them. In the previous season, they had captured the Division I South Sectional Title. And since only one player of the starting five graduated, they had high hopes, not only to regain the title and go to the Boston Garden for the second year in a row, but to make it to the State Championship. Unfortunately, the girls were knocked out of the State Tournament in the second round, by a strong Boston team, J. Burke High School.

Before this year, neither a girl or boy has ever scored 1,000 points throughout their high school career. But senior tri-captain, Kelly Liston, put an end to that, scoring her 1,000th point in the Winnacunnet Tournament in New Hampshire. Kelly helped carry the team to their second Hockomock League Co-Championship in two years. However, with a slow start in the beginning of the season, losing three of their first six games, the Lady Knights hopes of a league championship diminished. But as usual, the team came together and finished the season with a 12-4 league record, and an overall record of 16-6.

This year the Black Knights graduate five seniors, tri-captains Rachel Sinclair and Kelly Liston, as well as seniors Krissy Callanan, Alena McMullen, and Melissa Magrath. They have been strong contributors to the team and will surely be missed come next year.

We play to win: (Bottom Lt.) Kelly Liston makes her way down the court to sink one of her 1,000 points. (Rt.) Sinclair single-handedly works the parquet floors for the possession of the ball.

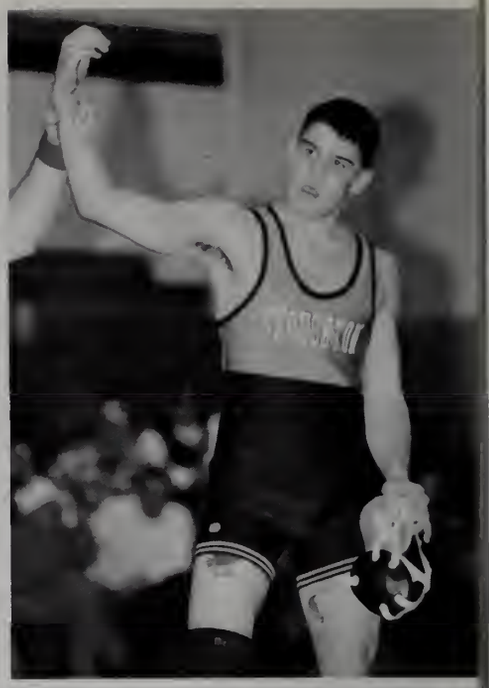
Grapplers Hang Tough



The Stoughton High School Grapplers had a tough season this year considering they had a young team and the fact that they were forced to forfeit three weight classes due to a shortage of teammates. They also lost a key senior, Jon Adams to injuries from a car accident. The team was always falling a few points short of a victory. The overall team record was three wins and twelve losses.

With an untriumphant season, the Knights finished strong at the end by placing sixth as a team at the Division Two South Sectional Championships. This was an accomplishment because seven out of ten teammates placed. The team tri-captains, seniors Mike Beder, Peter Marinilli and junior Mike Cimpher set the pace for the team. All three were Hockomock League All-Stars.

Peter Marinilli won the South Sectional Championship at 125 lbs, and was a finalist in the Division Two State Championship. He was voted MVP of the team.

Mike Beder, a tournament winner finished fourth in the South Sectionals and the Division Two State Championships at 119 lbs. He led the team in point scoring.

Junior Paul Cowan placed fourth at the Division Two South Sectionals at 189 lbs, qualifying for the States. Coach Lou Verrochi has high hopes for next year's team because the team only lost two seniors.

Icemen - Feel The Heat!

When one thinks of the integrity associated with Stoughton High Athletics, a name which immediately comes to mind is that of Ice Hockey coach Dan Mark. In late February, as the team sat one point away from qualifying for the Division II South tournament, Mother Nature seemed to be doing her bit to help the team. The cancellation of the Martha's Vineyard game had given SHS enough wins to qualify, but Coach Mark was adamant about his team earning their spot and that last point which would give it to them. A 4-3 comeback victory over Bishop Connelly gave the icemen just this. SHS, ranked 17th, was set to face off against Marshfield, ranked 16th.

On Friday, March 4, SHS lost to Marshfield, 4-4, in double overtime. The team finished with an overall record of 12-6-3, including wins over Canton and Franklin. This year, the team had four captains - seniors Chris Phillips, John Bonney, Dan O'Neill and Eric Frost. Chris Phillips who scored 25 goals and 24 assists during the season was the Hockomock league high scorer. He was a Hockomock League All-Star as well as a Quincy Patriot Ledger All-Scholastic. John Bonney was a Hockomock League All-Star, a Brockton Enterprise All-Scholastic, and a Quincy Patriot Ledger All-Scholastic. Junior defenseman Mike Rodrigues who scored 18 goals and 13 assists was a Hockomock League All-Star as well as a Brockton Enterprise All-Scholastic and Quincy Patriot Ledger All-Scholastic. Team was Mike Rodrigues and senior John Nestor received the sportsmanship award.

Hurdles

The Stoughton Black Knights Track Team enjoyed its finest season in nearly 20 years, finishing the season undefeated in the Hockomock League. In addition to the League title, the Knights won the Hockomock Championships, placed third at the state relays, fourth at the Eastern Mass. Championships, and a very surprising fifth place at the state meet. Their placement at the state meet made them the Boston Globe's fifth ranked team.

The team, led by senior captains Stephen Hansen and Jay Leone, hurdled its way to victory in nearly all events. Seniors: Ed Roberts, Jeremy Pires, Keith Fredericks, Mike DeGrande, and Brad Erlichman contributed much to the strong scoring effort and excitement. The seniors closed out their indoor track careers with strong performances at the state meet. Once again, Sean Earle took home the top scores in the league, and went on to do very well at the state and New England meets. Dave Dyckman, Jeremy Fischer, and Carlos Bairos were solid contributors to the team. Talented sophmores like Kyle Fredericks, Steve Dancey, Gary Stone, and Rob Sousa insure that the team has a bright future in the years to come.

The Home Stretch

The 1993-94 girls indoor track team started the season on the right foot under the leadership and guidance of senior captains Melissa Lodgen and Sarah Zimmerman. Other seniors included Cindy America, Kristin Crosbie, Chrissy Ilacqua, Kiley McGarry, Brooke Scannell, and foreign exchange students Friederike Vonschierstedt from Germany and Fabienne Zurkinden from Switzerland.

The girls finished fourth in the Hockomock League Championships, with excellent performances from underclassmen as well as seniors. Junior, Sarah Lake placed first in the fifty yard dash, finishing in 6.4 seconds. Sophomore, Rachelle Millien placed second in the shot-put with a personal best throw of 31 feet, 1.5 inches. Patricia Pierre chipped in with a third place finish in the 50 yard hurdles, as she finished in just eight seconds. Senior, Brooke Scannell finished fifth in the 50 yard hurdles. Stephanie Carroll finished fifth in the high jump, clearing a personal best of four feet, eight inches. Sixth place finishers included Regina Pierre in the 50 yard dash, Diana Andrade in the 1,000, and the mile relay team.

Several of the girls qualified for the Class B State Championships at Harvard, running exceptional times during the regular season. Junior, Sarah Lake ran her way to a state championship title in the 300m and Patricia Pierre finished fifth in the 60m hurdles. Other participants included Regina Pierre, Liz Bascon, Brooke Scannell, Heather Benoit, Diana Andrade, Chrissy Ilacqua, and Jaime Levine. As a conclusion to a very successful season, the MVP award went to junior Sarah Lake, the Sportsmanship Award to Kristin Crosbie and League All Stars to Sarah Lake and Patricia Pierre.

Through Victory And Defeat . . .

If there is one thing you can say about the 1994 Gymnastics Team it's that they had fun. Victory or defeat, smiling or grunting, the team celebrated at Town Spa after every Friday night meet. The highlight of the season? . . . an exciting victory over Franklin. A close meet all the way through, it came down to Floor Exercise where the Lady Knights flipped their way to victory.

The team managed to improve its record from last year, despite numerous injuries. Seniors Rachel Kaplan (captain), Kim Kramer, Ana Lourenco (captain), and Ronni Ann Sheehan led the team in injuries as well as spirit. There were ankle problems, back problems, knee problems and wrist problems, but nothing could subdue the senior's enthusiasm and excitement during their final season. Coaches Lisa Walsh and rookie assistant Sheila Chipman contributed to the team's development, making it an enjoyable season for all.

A few pithy quotes summarize the season, as remembered by team members: "Diamonds really are a girl's best friend." "Were you in school today?" "Oh, I see." "So jeans and a T-shirt is what you call dressed up."

Let's Play Ball

Coach Bob Ashley was appointed as the new baseball coach just prior to the '94 season. With seniors Scott Mulvaney and Allen Graber expected to turn in strong pitching and sophomore second baseman Todd Korchin showing great promise, there were hopes of a great winning season. After 6 games, the team's record was a disappointing 1-5. By the end of May, however, the team had evened its record to 8-8.

Going into its last 4 games, SHS needed all wins to qualify for the state tournament. With Korchin, second in the league with a batting average of .500, leading the offense and strong pitching, this looked possible. In the end, however, with a losing league record, the SHS batmen must wait to try again next year. Coach Ashley should be commended for his effort. Scott Mulvaney was voted team MVP of the season while he and teammate Todd Korchin were named all-stars. Shawn Tarpey received the sportsmanship award.

Underhanded

Softball has enjoyed much success at SHS. For the second year in a row, Coach Janet Sullivan and the Lady Knights won the Hockomock League title. While the whole team deserves credit for this accomplishment, four players were Hockomock League all-stars: senior co-captain Brooke Scannell at second base, junior Kara Shea at third and juniors Tracy Fritz and co-captain Debbie Zanca at pitcher and shortstop. Zanca was also named the league's Most Valuable Player.

At the team entered the Grand Slam tournament, the SHS Lady Knights were undefeated in their last 36 games. While the team was shut out by Carver, SHS went on to defeat Dartmouth, New Bedford, Norwood and Walpole, putting themselves in the Division I South Championship against Somerset. While a 5-3 defeat on a rainy Sunday afternoon saw Stoughton's quest for a state title end, with all of its talent and the support of its fans and the STOYAC program, there will be many more opportunities for the Lady Knights in the future.

Lost In All The Racket

Stoughton Manages To Win A Few

While SHS does not have the green grass of Wimbledon on which to gracefully and authoritatively defeat its opponents, the Boys Tennis team has the satisfaction of knowing that with every single match they improved. Their record, well under the 500 mark, fails to capture the team's effort.

Coach Joe Collins had hopes that the second time Stoughton faced its opponents, the Knights would be more difficult to defeat. When the team faced the Franklin Panthers for the second time, they rebounded from a previous 3-2 loss, to win 4-1. Seniors Ben Thaler and Scott Webster served as this year's co-captains. At the Spring Sports Banquet junior Matt Kovner received the sportsmanship award while Ben Thaler was recognized as the team MVP. This year's team graduates three seniors.

Tennis Anyone!!

The 1994 Girls Tennis Team went into the season with high hopes, starting with the 5:30 a.m. try-outs in March. Coach Clough brought on a number of promising freshmen and sophomores and an exchange student from Switzerland, Fabienne Zurkinden. However, the strength of the team was in the varsity line-up which remained relatively the same, losing only one senior to graduation last year. The co-captains Chi Hae Kwan and Amy Leven played the first, two singles positions, with junior Hae Min Kwan at a strong third singles spot. Seniors Olivia Kim and Faith Chan were the first doubles partners and senior Jen Gillis, came back from a knee injury last year to stun us with amazing leaping volley shots along with partner Vera DiBlasi.

At the end of the season, the team was 4 and 11. Despite the record, the team came out on top. All the girls had improved visibly, needing only that "killer instinct," but the talent and ability were there. The team had a lot of fun, even though the season record fell short of everyone's expectations; there was enough enthusiasm and good sportsmanship to enjoy the great tennis that was played.

Go The Distance

From discus to hurdles, triple jump to the dash, the Boys' Spring Track team displayed their talent throughout the Hockomock League. Finishing third overall behind No. Attleboro and King Philip, with a 6-2 record, the team captains Keith Fredericks and Sean Earle looked to the championship meets as an opportunity to "make some noise."

While SHS finished a disappointing sixth place coached by Todd Elwell in the Hockomock League Championships, at the South Shore Principals Championships, they finished third. Senior highlights included a first place finish by Keith Fredericks in the 100 meters (10.9) and a second place finish by Stephen Hansen in the javelin (144-6). At the Class B State Championships, SHS finished seventh place. Being held the day after the senior prom, the low senior participation served to emphasize the importance and strength of the underclassmen. Juniors Sean Earle and Dinis Aguiar had very impressive seasons. The seniors can be confident that their accomplishments this year will not only be remembered but improved upon in up coming seasons.

SPEED AND SKILL

Despite injuries, this year's Girls Spring Track team finished the season at 3-5. Highlights of the season took off with the SHS sprinters which consisted of junior tri-captain Patty Pierre in the hurdles and sophomores Liz Bascon and Regina Pierre in the 100- yard dash. The 4 x 100 relay team made up of Regina Pierre, Liz Bascon, freshman Dorea Smith and sophomore Tanjaneka Williams also performed well while the SHS distance runners' strength got zapped during the season, due to injuries. However, freshman Diane Goncalves defied the team's downward trend showing everyone that she is strong in the mile. And as for senior Sarah Zimmerman she will best be remembered as the person who showed the team spirit and how to persevere running the two-mile with injured ankles.

In addition to its runners, the Lady Knights had key performances turned in by its throwers and jumpers. Senior tri-captain Rachel Kaplan was outstanding in the javelin and discus, turning in throws of 115ft and 82ft respectively, and junior Stephanie Carroll consistently achieved victories in the triple and high jumps. Despite injury and great odds what the record may not show is that win or lose the Girls Spring Track team is always running strong. Coach Brady and Coach Tosca are to be commended for all their support and for a job well done.

A Funny Thing Happene

Stoughton Stage Comes To Life With Laughter

"Playgoers, the theatre is a temple, and we are here to worship the gods of comedy and tragedy. Tonight, I am pleased to announce . . . a comedy!" These lines set off the antics of one of the funniest musicals ever to be performed on the SHS stage. A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum, (Book by Burt Shevelove & Larry Gelbart, Music & Lyrics by Stephen Sondheim) played to enthusiastic audiences on Friday, March 4 and Saturday, March 5. Leading the characters through a series of mistaken identities, mislabeled potions, lost children, pirates and fake funerals in and about ancient Rome was Pseudolus, (R. Jon Shelley), slave to Hero (Josh Winters). Constantly conniving to earn enough money to buy his freedom, he convinces Marcus Lycus (Mike Jeffers) that the lovely Philia (Jen Stephens) had contracted the plague on Crete and will infect the other Courteseans (Erin Ross, Marcy Rosenberg, Traci Hunnewell, Mary Ferrazzi, Amy Piaseczny, Shonna Ruggo). He then makes plans to spirit Philia and Hero away, earning his freedom in return. He is thwarted at every turn.

First, Hysterium, (Chris Larsen) insists the girl be returned. Then Philia refuses to leave. Senex (David Levy) returns unexpectedly and thinks Philia is his new maid and his last chance to sow a few wild oats. Pseudolus convinces Senex to wait in his neighbor Hysteria's (Nava Cretu) house. Hysteria has been away for 20 years searching for her children who were stolen in infancy by pirates. Naturally she returns. Pseudolus & Hysterium convince her that her house is haunted and will remain so until she walks 7 times around the 7 hills of Rome.

Miles Gloriousus (Derek Small) arrives to claim his bride, Philia. Hysterium dresses up in a costume identical to Philia's and pretends to be dead. Domina (Melissa Young), Senex's wife, returns to spy on him and also disguises herself in a costume similar to Philia's. At the funeral, Miles discovers that Philia (Hysterium) is still alive and a chase ensues. Everything works out in the end. Lovers and families are reunited and Pseudolus gains his freedom.

The show must go on: (Top) The Cast of "A Funn Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum too numerous to name. (Above) Derek Sma dresses in gladiator garb to portray the part Miles Gloriousus.

But Why Kill Dodo?

Always looking for a new adventure, SHS sponsored its first Mystery Dinner Theatre on Saturday, May 7. But Why Kill Dodo? investigates the "gangland style" killing of the pets belonging to Georgie and Bebe Santini (Kevin deMelo and Jen Stephens). Georgie calls in the husband and wife detective team, Chaz and Cynthia Mallait (Mike Jeffers and Amy Piaseczny) to solve the murders. By questioning the other members of the household, Rocco the bodyguard (Derek Small), Bernie the neurotic accounting (Josh Winters), and Freda the housekeeper (Melissa Young), they manage to hide clues from each other and generally mess up the investigation. They were helped by the waitstaff (Lisa America, Amy Basque, Julie Cassistre, Traci Hunnewell, Alyssa Mills, Chris Piaseczny, Mark Toland, and Chris Ugo), who played former friends and enemies of the Santinis and dropped real and fake clues about the murders while serving a three course dinner. The cast also circulated among the diners to discuss various aspects of the story. The evening was very successful and another dinner theatre is planned for next year.

Dinner is served: (Top) Traci Hunnewell serves up a tasty morsel or two as Sparkles. "Alright, alright who wants a dinner." (Below) She's an attorney and he's a gangster, but the one seated, well, he is the only one of his kind, a hypochondriac. (Bottom Lt.) "I've gotta powder my nose," "Your make-up is fine doll." "These two have got to get a life." (Rt.) "You know it ain't easy being a gangster's wife."

The Knight Raves:

With Flying Colors: They March To The Beat Of A Different Drum

The Black Knights Marching Band and Color Guard finished their competing season in November 1993. However, they began learning their drill, music, and flag work in late August in the high school parking lot. Practices were long, hot and frustrating. After a time, they began to improve, the drill was memorized, the shape that was being represented on the field became clear, the music was learned and played strongly as the musicians' confidence increased. The Color Guard's flag work became synchronized and their movements were no longer stiff, but nimble. It was not long before everyone was in step.

The first competition of the season was held in Norwood on October 10th. The band and Color Guard performed to the best of their abilities despite the nervousness at the prospect of going out and performing in front of an audience and a panel of judges. This was the first competition for the freshmen and the new members of the group. Nevertheless, they brought home a silver medal with a score of 76.3, the highest score that any Stoughton High School Marching Band has ever received at the first competition. The entire performance of both the marching band and color guard combined earned them a third place position in their division, Division III (bands with 50-70 members).

The next competition took place on October 17th, in Stoughton. Six bands in all competed. New Bedford and Stoughton were competing against each other in Division III. It was an overcast rainy day, but that did not stop Stoughton from once again giving a performance worthy of a silver metal, and adding 8 points to the previous week's score, bringing it up to 84.2. In addition to this, the Color Guard won best Color Guard in Division III, and Drum Major Jon Shelley won the Best Drum Major in Division III. The group placed second, New Bedford won first place.

On October 23rd, the group travelled to Dartmouth, MA to compete. They earned yet another silver medal, with a score of 84.2 and placed fourth overall.

The next day, they travelled to Framingham State College to compete in the MICA Finals. This talented group brought home a gold medal for their stunning performance. The Percussion Line received 5 out of 5 stars, the band received 4 out of 5 stars for High Musical Score, Drum Major Jon Shelly received 5 out of 5 stars, the entire group received 5 out of 5 stars for the Visual Effect, and the color guard received 5 out of 5 stars.

On Saturday, November 6th, the band and color guard performed at a NESBA competition held in New Bedford. It rained during the strong performance. Stoughton brought home its first gold medal of the season. The score earned was an 89.1. The overall performance of the band and color guard placed them in fourth place in the Division III, while the color guard's performance earned them a second place position in the Best Color Guard category.

Sunday, November 7th, was the NESBA Championship Finals, the last and most important competition of the season. It was held at Boston University's Nickerson Field. Both the band and the color guard performed to the best of their abilities and for a spectacular show, they earned a score of 89.2 which is the highest score ever to be achieved by a group from Stoughton in past years. They also earned another gold medal. Overall, they came in fourth in Division III. There was a three way tie for the title of Best Drum Major in Division III, between King Phillip, New Bedford and Stoughton. Since there was only one trophy, it was decided amongst the judges that Stoughton would be the one to take it home. Congratulations to all members for another successful year!

It Was A Spring Fling

The piano had been tuned, the choirs and chorus had finished their me . . . my . . . mo . . . my . . . me warm-up as the audience grew restless in their seats for the start of the 1994 Spring Fling. As the surrounding lights grew dim and the spotlight up on center stage swelled, in entered the chorus with voices harmonized.

The jazz choir kept its audience impressed with the vocal slight of hand and be-bop stage antics. And what of the band? Well, even the band didn't miss a beat. Cymbals clanging, xylophones chiming, trumpets trumpetting, clairnets blaring, and Mr. Christianson out in front directing it all into an award winning performances, as always.

It was a night for single voices to stand alone and be put to the test. It was an evening for instrumental genius. It was a night where dance, instrumental, and voice cried out into the audience (the show choir) with resounding success. But, just as quickly or not so quickly, depending on who you talk to, the 1994 Spring Fling had ended and it was time to go home. The night ended with Mr. Christianson receiving several awards and certificates of recognition from state and town officials for his 20 years of service and hopes of many more. Dim lights. Exit: chorus, show choir, band, jazz band and jazz choir. The 1994 Spring Fling was over!!

OUR LAST WILL

I, Jon Adams, leave.
I, Ilda Amaral, leave Stoughton High School the future.
I, Cindy America, leave behind Coach Currie's torturing track practices.
I, Melissa Andrews, leave Bonnie Blaine my locker to help her finish high school someday.
I, Phil Arsenault, leave nothing!
I, Orlanda Azevedo, leave to Stoughton High School hopes and dreams for the future.
I, James Bagtaz, leave my constant make-up work.
I, Sandra Barrett, leave to all the loser guys hellish years at S.H.S.
I, Aaron Bascon, leave my grades.
I, Mike Beder, leave.
I, Garrett Brown, leave my respects to those who deserve, and to those who don't.
I, Jonathan Brown, leave my two finger salute.
I, Anne Cabral, leave my gym class to anyone who wants it.
I, Krissy Callanan, leave David Pope a path in which to follow.
I, Lizete Camara, leave the senior year agony to all future Stoughton High School Seniors.
I, Wendy Camara, leave my name and memory.
I, Ed Caro, leave my gym socks in my locker and my hopes of a real transvestite day for the Class of '95.
I, Faith Chan, leave John Cofran all my homeroom kisses.
I, Peter Cochrane, leave behind the knowledge and directions to the nearest drug store where tylenol can be purchased to soothe the migraine of high school living.
I, John Cofran, leave Faith Chan all my love.
I, Kristin Colp, leave Michelle Hansler a bucket.
I, Dianne Couto, leave all the aggravation of senior year behind to all future seniors.
I, Gina DiVirgilio, leave nothing to Stoughton High.
I, Jennifer Dodge, leave my cat "Greg" to the Stoughton High School.
I, Amy Donahue, leave my perfect attendance of my entire high school career.
I, Stacy Dwyer, leave S.H.S. the great times in my senior year with Mr. Bridgeforth's work study program.
I, Erin Fallon, leave the clique to Stoughton High.
I, Kristen Farrington, leave the school nothing.
I, David Fedorowich, leave Ms. Briody to Bruce Blatchford.
I, Christina Ferrara, leave those who fail me a clue.
I, Mary Ferrazzi, leave Tonslyn and Amy P. my goggles and "helmet".
I, Michelle Ford, leave the girls the bathroom.
I, Amy Forrester, leave nothing.
I, Gina Frade, leave Phillip Grasso the pleasure of many overnight train rides, and to Nancy Mendonca scalpels that don't cut.
I, Teresa Fresina, leave my loud voice and confidence to any up-and-coming senior who needs it!
I, Eric Frost, leave behind the red USC hat for all to wear.
I, Chris Gillpatrick, leave the memory of beating Canton for the first time in 11 years.
I, Julie Hagg, leave the field hockey team my great running speed.
I, Michelle Hansler, leave Mr. C. with the memories of our class, so you'll never forget us.
I, Keith Harding, leave Mr. C. three cases belonging to the U.S. Post Office.
I, Mike Hill, leave nothing.
I, Traci Hunnewell, leave Amy Piaseczny the "joy" of being Color Guard Captain and Mr. C. . . . (Dunt, Dunt, Dah!) The Freshmen!
I, Jen Jannini, leave Cheryl Crean anti-gas pills and Terri Cunniff a math quiz.
I, Eric Jasie, leave nothing to nobody since I didn't take anything from anybody.
I, Mike Jeffers, leave being of debatable mind and unsound body, Paco's old locker to the rest of my tribe.
I, Keely Johnson, leave my freckles to Mr. Kelleher, my sunshine to Mr. Bishop and my eyes to Mr. McLellan.
I, Patricia Johnson, leave my sister to put up with all the "stuff" I had to.
I, Tim Johnson, leave all my cigarettes in the bathroom for anybody stupid enough to get caught and my guitar (in pieces) to Mr. Sarno.
I, Amy Kastner, leave all of the students, the teachers that have taught me so much.
I, Deidre Kneeland, leave Christine Resendes my role of being not so nice.
I, Kim Kramer, leave my teachers one less kiss up.
I, Chi Hae Kwan, leave the Kwanmobile to my sister, hoping that she will learn to make faster left turns.
I, Michelle Landry, leave my naturally red hair to those who wish they had it!
I, Kira Lanza, leave Tina Muse all my "love" for cheerleading and Mrs. Dolan.

AND TESTAMENT

I, Jessica Legaski, leave my parking spot at the end of the street to my sister, Jenn and my numerous absences to my brother, Joe.
I, Anat Leviel, leave my sisters Michelle, Keren and Dana and my brother Yair all the teachers that I had to suffer through.
I, Kelly Liston, leave behind my basketball scoring record for the next good athlete to break.
I, Melissa Lodgen, leave my height or lack of to anyone who can measure up to it!
I, Ana Lourenco, leave my highlighted textbooks to those lucky enough to find them.
I, Keith Maysles, leave the saying "Step up to the plate".
I, Marc McCabe, leave Sandy Blatchford my ways and Bruce my lunch table.
I, Christine McDonald, leave my "spirit" with the cheerleading squad.
I, Alena McMullen, leave sprinting to homeroom from Clapp Street every day in one minute.
I, Tom McNeill, leave this place to those who'll go here.
I, Jodi Meadows, leave my mean nasty temper to all Freshmen and all the good times.
I, Pat Mitchell, leave all the foolish underclassmen the privilege of returning to high school next year.
I, Donna Mongeau, leave to all who knew me, the pleasure of having known me.
I, Jennifer Moura, leave all the rotten memories to the underclassmen!
I, Joseph Murphy, leave Stoughton High School a legacy of tardiness and absences!!
I, Amanda O'Neil, leave Kash a lifetime supply of cooler and to Jen and Sinc my bankcard.
I, Danny O'Neill, leave Kevin Poirier the pleasure of dealing with Mr. Mark.
I, Jim Pane, leave my dirty locker to the next senior class.
I, Chris Phillips, leave my gym clothes which I haven't washed since sophomore year.
I, David Puljanowski, leave Ed Peters and Mike O'Day Tuesday nights at Papa Ginos.
I, Nancy Resendes, leave Stoughton High School a pig farm.
I, Tim Roberson, leave Kearamy desk for all of her junk.
I, Brenda Russell, leave S.H.S. and the class of '94, all the memories of the last four years.
I, Sandra Russell, leave Chris Larsen, Sandy Blatchford, and Alyssa Merzon the memories of the "good" times.
I, Thelma Salvador, leave.
I, Brooke Scannell, leave Patricia Pierre the control of hurdle hall.
I, Erica Schmidt, leave Nelly Ramos her braces.
I, Shayla Settlers, leave Rashida Gross my common sense and Stephanie Lindor my intelligence.
I, Bobbi Sheff, leave nothing as I'm taking it all with me.
I, R. Jon Shelley, leave my beautiful black bug and the fumes from A307 that sent me to the hospital!
I, Derek Small, leave the memory of me being the first and only person to ever "speak" a solo in a musical.
I, Jason Snyder, leave behind the ability to not come to school and yet still get good grades to any who feel they can continue the legacy.
I, Paula Soares, leave my laughter to all the teachers who had me as a student.
I, Stella Sousa, leave the fact I was in this school.
I, Jen Stephens, leave Sinc, Coup and Mandy, my lack of responsibility and my inability to grasp the concept of time.
I, Shawn Tarpey, leave.
I, Ben Thaler, leave my sport goggles and my persistent questions to all my past math teachers.
I, Jen Toland, leave Tuna, E. Ross, Brandi, Alena and Ben our wonderful French memories.
I, Jon Tolman, leave nothing.
I, James Edward Turner, leave everything except myself.
I, Beth Van Patten-Steiger, leave behind my last name to anyone who wants it!
I, Jean Veldhoven, leave my late homework to all my teachers.
I, Lisa Viveiros, leave them the memory of my magnificent presence in their school!
I, Cheryl Walker, leave Mr. Aalpoel the fifty-four absent notes, that I never gave him.
I, Scott Wallace, leave technical of the theatre to the "Next Generation".
I, Scott Webster, leave behind the many heart broken girls.
I, Bill Young, leave all the stuff in my locker.
I, Galit Zielinski, leave behind the memories with my friends.
I, Sarah Zimmerman, leave my running shoes and the pain in my ankles to the cross country team.

"It has never been more difficult for young people to live in this country than presently. Teenagers face incredible pressure, violence, and other truly terrifying experiences daily, either directly or indirectly. However, we have learned to endure these and have become strong, ambitious, and determined in the process. We're a generation to be proud of. In the future, we will continue to strive for quality and attempt to make this world a better place to live. We offer pride for the present and hope for the future. In conclusion, the sky is not the limit, it's just the beginning."
